

INTRODUCTION

This Methodological Resource Book (MRB) is intended to serve as documentation of survey materials and methodology associated with the 2005 National Survey on Drug Use and Health (NSDUH), formerly known as the National Household Survey on Drug Abuse (NHSDA). The MRB includes details associated with data collection and processing, including sampling, instrument testing and development, imputation procedures, statistical analyses and inferences, counting and listing operations, data collection results, data processing, and logical editing and coding procedures. Data collection materials also are presented, including computer-assisted interviewing (CAI) specifications for programming, showcards, and pill cards. Moreover, reports from a reliability study and methamphetamine analysis are included.
