

Keeping Your Best Friend

Active, Safe, And Pain Free

FDA-approved Veterinary Non-Steroidal Anti-Inflammatory Drugs (NSAIDs) are used to control the pain of osteoarthritis in dogs. Some veterinary NSAIDs are approved for the control of postoperative pain in dogs. There are, however, risks and benefits with all commonly prescribed veterinary drugs, including NSAIDs.

To find out more information about NSAIDs, go to:

<http://www.fda.gov/cvm/nsaids.htm>

U.S. Department of Health and Human Services
Food and Drug Administration
Center for Veterinary Medicine