Dear Friend,

At a time when government is seeking to do less, the public depends more and more on charities to provide social services and other forms of public good.

Although the CIVIL SERVICE LEADER is not a charity, the work we do on behalf of certain non-profits has been even more fulfilling. In the past years we have worked extremely hard raising funds for hospitalized veterans, disadvantaged youths, and law-enforcement organizations who, due to their hazardous occupations, count on the support of the business community. The fund-raising campaigns we're engaged in, albeit small, are a step in the right direction.

Please, please, please, we ask for your kind understanding on behalf of the ideals and needs of the charities we've represented. In addition to the jobs at stake, the futures of those less fortunate are counting on your compassion, support, love and friendship. I strongly urge us all to not let them down. Thank You.

Respectfully yours,

John J. Ferrara
