prohibited from offering hearsay investigational hearing testimony in lieu of live testimony from Ms. Lobe.¹ For these reasons, Respondents OSF and RHS respectfully request that this Court grant their motion in limine and exclude the investigational hearing transcript of Ms. Lobe (PX0217) from evidence at trial in this matter.

I. ARGUMENT

As a threshold matter, Ms. Lobe's investigational hearing transcript is classic hearsay. Pursuant to Rule 3.43(b), hearsay is inadmissible if it fails to meet the basic "standards of admissibility" of evidence in FTC administrative proceedings. 16 C.F.R. § 3.43(b). That is, hearsay evidence is only admissible if it is "relevant, material, and bears satisfactory indicia of reliability so that its use is fair." Id.; see also 74 Fed. Reg. 1804, 1816 (Jan. 13, 2009) (Commission commentary stating that the revised rule does not provide for the admission of hearsay evidence "in every circumstance," but only where such evidence is sufficiently relevant, reliable and probative "so that its use is fair.").²

PX0217 fails to meet these basic standards of admissibility. Even if the Court considers PX0217 relevant, it may be excluded if "its probative value is substantially outweighed by the danger of unfair prejudice, confusion of the issues, or if the evidence would be misleading, or based on considerations of undue delay, waste of time, or needless presentation of cumulative evidence." 16 C.F.R. § 3.43(b). Here, the unfair prejudice that will result from the admission of

² The Federal Rules of Evidence provide an "extremely useful" guide for assessing admissibility of evidence within an administrative proceeding. Fed. Trade Comm'n Operating Manual, Chapter 10, Section 6 ("Admissibility of Evidence"). The Federal Rules of Evidence are routinely referenced in administrative proceedings before the Federal Trade Commission. See, e.g., In the Matter of Intel Corporation, Docket No. 9341, Order Denying Complaint Counsel's Motion to Admit European Commission Decision, May 6, 2010 (reviewing application of Federal Rule of Evidence 803(8)(C) in assessment of the reliability of hearsay evidence). The Administrative Law Judge may also provide in the Scheduling Order for the application of specific provisions from the Federal Rules of Evidence. In this matter, the Court expressly incorporated F.R.E. 602 and 701 into its December 20, 2011 Scheduling Order.

Ms. Lobe's investigational hearing transcript when Respondents could not contemporaneously cross-examine her about the biased statements made during the investigational hearing substantially outweighs any probative value the transcript may have. It is, therefore, inadmissible.

A. Ms. Lobe's Investigational Hearing Transcript is Unreliable

Ms. Lobe's investigational hearing transcript is unreliable because the context in which Complaint Counsel procured Ms. Lobe's testimony aroused or reinforced biases against the hospitals involved in this transaction. Bias and context are critical factors for assessing the admissibility and probative value of hearsay evidence. See 74 Fed. Reg. 1804, 1816 (Jan. 13, 2009) (identifying bias and context among the key factors to consider in analyzing the admissibility and probative value of hearsay evidence).

Complaint Counsel initially sought Ms. Lobe's declaration in support of their case, and communicated on several occasions with her and United's inside and outside counsel about Ms. Lobe signing a declaration drafted by Complaint Counsel. (Exhibit B). Ultimately, Ms. Lobe and United decided to have Ms. Lobe [REDACTED] conducive to ascertaining the truth of a matter. See, e.g., United States v. Mendel, 578 F.2d 668, 672 (7th Cir. Ill. 1978) (“The law generally prefers spontaneous oral testimony to a written affidavit. An affidavit, which can be and often is prepared by someone other than the affiant, is less likely to reflect fairly and accurately the affiant's own recollection or perception than spontaneous oral testimony.”). The carefully prepared testimony Ms. Lobe offered during her investigational hearing was hardly spontaneous. This Court has “never allowed an affidavit or declaration to be admitted without some other basis, some finding, some hearsay exception.” In the Matter of ProMedica Health System, Inc. (FTC Docket No. 9346), May 26, 2011 Prehearing Tr. 34:24-35:1. Because Ms. Lobe’s investigational hearing transcript is merely a declaration in disguise, this Court should treat it in similar fashion and exclude PX0217 from evidence.

[REDACTED]. (Exhibit C). In preparation for Ms. Lobe's investigational hearing, [REDACTED]

B. Any Possible Probative Value of the Declarations Is Substantially Outweighed By the Danger of Prejudice, Inaccuracy, and Confusion

Even if Ms. Lobe’s investigational hearing transcript is not inherently unreliable, it is still inadmissible under other provisions of Rule 3.43(b). Paralleling Federal Rule of Evidence 403, Rule 3.43(b) empowers the Court to balance the putative value of any evidence against basic concerns of fairness, accuracy, and judicial efficiency. Ms. Lobe’s investigational hearing transcript should be excluded because it is misleading, and any limited probative value it may have is substantially outweighed by the danger of unfair prejudice and confusion of the issues.

Most importantly, if the Court admits Ms. Lobe’s investigational hearing transcript in lieu of live testimony, Respondents will be unable to confront Ms. Lobe and challenge the biased and unreliable statements she made in her investigational hearing about the effect of the affiliation of RHS with OSF on healthcare services in the Rockford, Illinois area. The danger of prejudice resulting from Respondents’ inability to present a full and accurate portrayal of the evidence to the Court sufficiently outweighs any probative value of admitting the hearsay statements Ms. Lobe made in her investigational hearing.

Additionally, if Ms. Lobe testifies herself at the trial in the matter, her investigational hearing testimony is needlessly cumulative. The admission of Ms. Lobe's investigational hearing transcript, in addition to her live testimony, will burden the record in this case with cumulative, duplicative evidence.

II. Conclusion

PX0217, the investigational hearing transcript of Ms. Michelle Lobe, does not meet the requirements for admissibility under Rule 3.43(b). Respondents respectfully request that the Court grant their motion in limine and enter an order excluding PX0217.
