CONVENTION UPDATE

The convention so far:

Monday: Kennedy loses roll-call vote on the "open" convention rule, 1,986.4 to 1,390.6. Ninety minutes later, he withdraws as a candidate for president, saying, "Carter's forces have won an impressive victory this evening and I'm a realist and I know what this result means. . . . The effort on the nomination is over."

The Convention at a Glance

Thursday, August 14, 1970

Carter Renominated, But Faces Party Unity Battle

The Democratic Party renominates President Carter for a second term, but party members still have serious reservations about the president. Carter has an uphill battle in achieving party unity for the fall election. See A-1.

Carter to Run "Proudly" on Democratic Platform

President Carter vows to run "proudly" on the Democratic platform, but clearly states he is not embracing every line on every issue, particularly the plank calling for a $12 billion jobs program and the other key issues he fought unsuccessfully. See A-1.

Carter Finesses Platform Fight With Kennedy

The fact that few delegates will walk out on President Carter as they had threatened earlier is a tribute to his success in finessing the substantial differences between himself and Sen. Edward Kennedy on the platform. See A-1.

Blacks Want Meeting With Carter to Air Grievances

Disgruntled black delegates demand that the president meet with them within 24 hours to respond to a list of grievances. The delegates particularly are unhappy with Carter's stance on jobs and the MX missile. See A-4.

Carter Assumes Role of Nominee, Peacemaker

Democratic presidential nominee Jimmy Carter attempts to restore harmony with the group he blames for his political vulnerability. Carter makes his first official appearance as the party's nominee today at a fund-raising luncheon. See A-5.

Anderson Seeks Defectors for Campaign

Independent presidential candidate John Anderson arrives in New York to seek disenchanted Democratic Party members and to persuade them to join his campaign. But Anderson fails to win over top Kennedy aide Patrick Lucey, who has been mentioned as a possible running mate. See A-5.

The Convention at a Glance

Democrats Struggle on Economic Issues

Unless a faltering attempt at compromise succeeds, the Democrats will fight out on the convention floor tonight minority proposals to spend billions of dollars to create jobs and to impose official controls to stop inflation. See A-1

Carter Wins Rule Vote to Insure Nomination

Sen. Edward Kennedy abandons his presidential campaign after President Carter clinches the Democratic nomination by overwhelmingly defeating "open convention" efforts. See A-1

Kennedy Remains Unclear About Supporting Ticket

Sen. Edward Kennedy remains noncommittal about supporting the Carter-Mondale ticket. Kennedy hoped to maintain his leverage for tonight's platform votes. See A-3

Udall Attempts to Soothe Battered Party Spirit

Keynote speaker and Kennedy supporter Rep. Morris Udall tries to soothe battered feelings after the open convention vote. Of the race against Ronald Reagan, Udall declares, "We've got a tough fight on our hands." See A-3

Many Leading Democrats Shunned Convention

The carefully cultivated television image of a working partnership between congressional Democrats and the administration belies two facts. Legions of Hill Democrats stayed away from New York and those who attended have been cut out of the action. See A-5
