Older Americans Month 2012

Message from Administration for Community Living Administrator and Assistant Secretary for Aging Kathy Greenlee

It is an honor to join President Obama in proclaiming May 2012 as Older Americans Month. This recognition, which has been celebrated nationally since 1963, gives us an opportunity to honor and acknowledge older Americans for the contributions they make to our Nation. This year's theme for Older Americans Month, "Never Too Old to Play," recognizes that older Americans are active and engaged in their communities, giving younger generations the benefit of their wisdom and experience. I would also like to acknowledge the efforts of the Administration on Aging's national aging services network which is working tirelessly to provide services and supports to older adults that enable them to remain healthy and independent.

During Older Americans Month we should all find ways to enrich the lives of the older adults who touch our lives and make a difference in our county.

White House LGBT Conference on Aging

Join Administration for Community Living Administrator and Assistant Secretary for Aging Kathy Greenlee and other senior Obama Administration officials for a day-long discussion on key issues that impact LGBT (Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual and Transgender) older adults.

The conference will provide advocates, community leaders and members of the public an opportunity to engage with the Obama Administration on the health, housing, and security needs of aging members of the LGBT community.

Participants will receive updates from senior officials from The White House and key agencies and departments, connect with Federal government resources and opportunities through workshop sessions, and provide valuable feedback through the "Open Space" process.

The conference is hosted by The White House Office of Public Engagement in partnership with the University of Miami Center on Aging.

Date: Monday, May 7, 2012

Time: 9:00 AM – 5:00 PM

Site: University of Miami Miller School of Medicine Clinical Research Building
Executive Center 6th Floor, 1120 NW 14th Street, Miami, FL

It's not too late to register; go to <http://go.usa.gov/mGN>

HHS Announces New Affordable Care Act Options for Community-Based Care

Medicaid and Medicare introduce greater flexibility for beneficiaries to receive care at home or in settings of their choice

New opportunities in Medicaid and Medicare that will allow people to more easily receive care and services in their communities rather than being admitted to a hospital or nursing home were recently announced by Health and Human Services (HHS) Secretary Kathleen Sebelius.

Both endeavors are made possible by the Affordable Care Act, and are one part of the Obama administration's efforts to help people with disabilities and those living with chronic illness stay in their own homes when they wish to do so. These new efforts follow the recent creation of the Administration for Community Living (ACL). This new entity, brings together the Administration on Aging, the Administration on Developmental Disabilities (formerly a part of the HHS Administration for Children and Families) and the HHS Office on Disability—previously individual offices with a similar and connected mission—to improve the lives of Americans with functional needs. ACL will work on increasing access to community supports and achieving full community participation for seniors and people with disabilities.

For more information on the Administration for Community Living, go to <http://www.hhs.gov/acl/>

Community First Choice Option

The Community First Choice Option provides states choosing to participate in this option a six percentage point increase in federal Medicaid matching funds for providing community-based attendant services and supports to beneficiaries who would otherwise be confined to a nursing home or other institution.

For more information on the Community First Choice Option, go to http://www.cms.gov/apps/media/fact_sheets.asp

At Home Demonstration Program

The Independence at Home demonstration, which is voluntary for Medicare beneficiaries, provides chronically ill Medicare beneficiaries with a complete range of in-home primary care services. Under the At Home Demonstration Program, the Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services (CMS) will partner with primary care practices led by physicians or nurse practitioners to evaluate the extent to which delivering primary care services in a home setting is effective in improving care for Medicare beneficiaries with multiple chronic conditions and reducing costs. Up to 10,000 Medicare patients with chronic conditions will be able to get most of the care they need at home.

The first 16 organizations that will participate in this new demonstration are scheduled to begin on June 1, 2012, and conclude May 31, 2015.

For more information on the Independence at Home demonstration and the organizations selected to participate visit, go to <http://innovation.cms.gov/initiatives/independence-at-home>

Funding Opportunity

Initiative to Reduce Avoidable Hospitalizations among Nursing Facility Residents

The deadline to submit a Notice of Intent to Apply (NOIA) for this funding opportunity has been extended to May 7, 2012 by 3:00 p.m. Eastern Time.

This recently announced effort aims to improve the quality of care for people residing in nursing facilities. The Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services (CMS) will support organizations that will partner with nursing facilities to implement evidence-based interventions that both improve care and lower costs. The initiative is focused on long-stay nursing facility residents who are enrolled in the Medicare and Medicaid programs, with the goal of reducing avoidable inpatient hospitalizations. This initiative supports the Partnership for Patients' goal of reducing hospital readmission rates by 20% by the end of 2013.

To submit your NOIA, go to <https://cmsgov.wufoo.com/forms/q7p5x7/>

To access additional information, including the RFP, the Initiative Fact Sheet and a list of Frequently Asked Questions, go to <http://innovation.cms.gov/initiatives/rahnfr/>

Reinventing Low Wage Work

An Aspen Institute discussion on work in the direct care industry

In the next few decades, the US population will grow older as millions of baby boomers retire and advances in health care allow us to live longer. This shift in our age demographics will place bigger demands on our healthcare system, and the direct-care workforce, which includes home health aides, nursing assistants, and personal care assistants. Yet, these jobs pay very little, offer few benefits and turnover in these occupations is high. This has ramifications for not only the people working these low-wage jobs and the businesses employing them, but also for the quality of care we receive.

In this discussion, experts in a range of disciplines will engage in conversation about the challenges this workforce faces, the implications these issues have for our economy and healthcare system, and solutions we can consider to improve these jobs while also improving the quality of healthcare so much of our elderly and disabled population relies on.

Date: Thursday, May 3, 2012

Time: 12:00 p.m. – 1:30 p.m.

New Webinar Series to Address Coordination of Resources Available to Assist Persons with Alzheimer's Disease or Other Dementias and Their Family Caregivers

The National Institute on Aging (NIA) and the Administration on Aging (AoA), in partnership with grantees including the Alzheimer's Association, Alzheimer's Disease Research Centers, Alzheimer's Disease Education and Referral Center, and the Eldercare Locator are partnering to host a webinar series to improve coordination of resources available to assist persons with Alzheimer's Disease or other dementias and their family caregivers! All are invited – especially new staff / interns / volunteers, or those just interested in getting a refresher.

The information discussed in these webinars is especially timely. The National Alzheimer's Plan includes action steps for AoA and NIA to share this information. Additionally many States, Area Agencies and local service providers are also working to create and enhance dementia-capable systems of care and support.

NIA & AoA invite you to take advantage of these opportunities. You can register for all three webinars or just the one or two that most interest you.

Once your registration is approved, you will receive a confirmation email message with instructions on how to join the event.

Space is limited, so please register as early as possible. Each webinar will also be recorded and posted on the AoA web site soon after the session.

The schedule is as follows:

National Women's Health Week, May 13 to 19

Spring is upon us and so is National Women's Health Week. This annual, week-long health observance is coordinated by the US Department of Health and Human Services Office on Women's Health (OWH). The theme for 2012 is "It's Your Time."

During this special week, communities, businesses, government, health organizations, and other groups unite in efforts to promote women's health. This year's theme is to heighten awareness of National Women's Health Week's goal of empowering women to make their health a top priority across the life span. It encourages women to take steps to improve their physical and mental health and lower their risks of certain diseases by visiting a health care professional to receive regular checkups and preventive screening, staying active, eating healthy and avoiding unhealthy behaviors such as smoking and not wearing a seatbelt and, for caregivers especially, paying attention to their mental health.

Join OWH in reinforcing this encouragement by promoting National Women's Health Week with events in your community. To learn more about this observance, go to the National Women's Health Week web page at <http://www.womenshealth.gov/whw/>

New Web Videonovela Series for Spanish-Speaking Diabetes Patients

A new Spanish-language videonovela, Aprende a vivir (Learn to Live), features messages to help diabetes patients compare their treatment options to find a regimen that works best for them. The three-part videonovela series is being distributed via the Internet by the Department of Health and Human Services' (HHS) Agency for Healthcare Research and Quality (AHRQ).

Aprende a vivir tells the story of Don Felipe, who has type 2 diabetes and is head of the Jiménez family, and how he is having a problem learning to manage his disease.

The first episode is now available on AHRQ's Healthcare 411 Web site, <http://healthcare411.ahrq.gov/aprendeavivir.aspx>; the upcoming two episodes will be posted on the site over the next two weeks.
