

Sergeant
DARWIN E. BUTLER
Chicago Police Department

Sergeant Butler has been employed with the Chicago Police Department (CPD) for sixteen years, where he has advanced in the department working in a gang/tactical unit for three years and later working undercover narcotics for six years. He is currently assigned to the Narcotics Section, where he has been a supervising sergeant for the past five years. During his tenure with the CPD, Sergeant Butler has received several awards, departmental commendations and numerous honorable mentions. Despite being shot in the line of duty, he remains able to perform his duties with all of its physical and mental challenges in a professional manner.

Sergeant Butler has a bachelor's degree in law enforcement management and a master's degree in police psychology. He is a highly motivated individual who is always striving for perfection and is always looking for ways to improve himself and those under his supervision. Sergeant Butler's long-term goal within the CPD is to achieve a command position.

Sergeant Butler has served as a guest instructor in the Inspector General Criminal Investigator Academy's Undercover Investigations Training Program.
