Congressional Candidates Active in 1988 Elections

During 1988, principal campaign committees of candidates active in 1988 elections are required to file pre-primary and pre- and postgeneral election reports, as appropriate. They must also file quarterly reports. (For filing dates of reports, see page 3 below). In addition, any contribution of $1,000 or more received by the candidate's committee between 20 and 2 days before an election must be reported in writing by the recipient committee within 48 hours after it is received. 11 CFR 104.5(f).

If the candidate has more than one authorized committee, the principal campaign committee must also file a consolidated report, FEC Form 3Z. For details, see page 14 of the Campaign Guide For Congressional Candidates and Committees or 11 CFR 104.3(f).

Congressional Candidates

Not Active in 1988 Elections

The principal campaign committees of candidates who will not be active in 1988 elections (i.e., committees authorized by candidates seeking election in future years or committees which were active in previous elections and have outstanding debts) must continue to report semiannually. (For filing dates of reports, see page 3 below.)

Note that campaigns with more than one authorized committee must also file a consolidated report. (See active Congressional Campaigns above.)

Presidential Committees

The principal campaign committees of Presidential candidates are required to report on either monthly or quarterly basis during 1988. a Committees which have received contributions or made expenditures aggregating $100,000 or more (or which anticipate this level of activity) must file monthly reports during 1988. In November and December 1988 and January 1989, in lieu of monthly reports, these Presidential committees must file a pre- and post-general election report and a year-end report. Committees with financial activity under $100,000 file quarterly reports, a pre-primary report, pre- and post-general election reports and a year-end report. (For filing dates of reports, see page 3 below.)

The FEC requests that Presidential committees which change their reporting schedule during 1988 notify the agency of their intention in writing. Note that campaigns with more than one authorized committee must also file a consolidated report. (See Active Congressional Campaigns above.)

Parties and PACs

All party committees and PACs (i.e., separate segregated funds and nonconnected committees) are required to file on either a quarterly or a monthly basis in 1988. (The reporting schedules for quarterly and monthly filers are detailed below.)

Quarterly Filers

Those committees that choose to file quarterly must also file a post-general election report. In addition, quarterly filers that make contributions or expenditures to support specific candidates in 1988 elections must also file appropriate pre-election reports (primary, general or both) if their financial activity has not been previously disclosed. (For filing dates of reports, see below.)

Monthly Filers

Committees which file on a monthly schedule must file pre- and post-general election reports in lieu of their November and December monthly reports, and a year-end report, due January 31, 1989.

Independent Spenders

Note that any independent expenditures aggregating $1,000 or more and made between 20 and 2 days before an election must be reported within 24 hours after the expenditure(s) are made.

CHANGE IN FILING FREQUENCY

PACs and party committees which plan to change their reporting schedule in 1988 (e.g., from semiannually to monthly) must notify the Commission by submitting a letter with the January report. A committee may not change its filing frequency more than once a year. 11 CFR 104.5(c).

ADVANCE NOTICE OF PROPOSED RULEMAKING ON MCFL

The Commission decided, on December 17, 1987, to publish an Advance Notice of Proposed Rulemaking examining what regulatory changes might be appropriate in light of the Supreme Court's opinion in FEC v. Massachusetts Citizens for Life, Inc. (MCFL), 107, S. Ct. 616(1986).

This notice will seek further comment on an issue raised by the National Right to Work Committee (NRWC) in a petition for rulemaking. The issue is whether the Commission should adopt an "express advocacy" standard for determining whether corporate or union activity is permissible under sections 114.3 and 114.4 of the regulations. The Commission will also solicit comments on the possible ramifications of the exemption created by the Court for election-related activities by certain types of corporations, that is, those corporations which are similar to MCFL.

The advance notice will be published in the Federal Register in early January 1988. Copies of the notice may be obtained by calling the Information Division at 202/376-3120 or 800/424-9530.

SIMON AND ROBERTSON ELIGIBLE FOR PRIMARY MATCHING FUNDS

During November and December 1987 Senator Paul Simon, a Democratic Presidential candidate, and the Reverend M. G. "Pat" Robertson, a Republican candidate, became the tenth and eleventh candidates, respectively, to qualify for federal matching funds for the 1988 Presidential primary elections.

Under the Presidential Primary Matching Payment Account (26 U.S.C. $9031 et seq.), Presidential candidates may begin seeking eligibility for primary matching funds after January 1, 1987. However, the U.S. Treasury may not make actual payments until after January 1, 1988. The maximum amount of matching funds an eligible candidate may receive during 1988 is to half the overall spending equal limit for each publicly funded established by law Presidential primary candidate ($10 million, plus a cost-of-living adjustment). The limit may be as high as $22 million in 1988,* in which case Presidential primary candidates could qualify for approximately $11 million in primary matching funds.

The Commission's determination followed a thorough review by the Audit Division of the threshold submission made by Senator Simon on October 28, 1987, and by Reverend Robertson on October 29, 1987. To establish eligibility for matching funds, a Presidential primary candidate must raise in excess of $5,000 from individuals in each of at least 20 different states. Although individual contributors may give up to $1,000 to the candidate, only $250 from each contributor may be matched with public funds. The candidate must document those contributions and must agree to comply with the election law and Commission Regulations.

*With an additional $5 million allowed for fundraising costs, the total spending limit for 1988 could reach $27 million.

The Record is published by the Federal Election Commission, 999 E Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20463. Commissioners are: Thomas J. Josefiak, Chairman; Danny L. RALPH J. GALLIANO v. U.S. POSTAL SERVICE

On , at the request of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit, the FEC filed a friend of the court (amicus curiae) brief in Ralph J. Galliano v. U.S. Postal Service (Civil Action No. 86-5684). In light of First Amendment concerns raised by the suit, the appeals court asked the FEC to address the question of whether specific provisions of the Federal Election Campaign Act (FECA) would displace the application of 39 U.S.C. §3005 to the political solicitations named in the suit. (Section 3005 of the postal statute prohibits any "scheme...for obtaining money or property through the mail by means of false representations.")

Background

During 1983 and 1984, the Congressional Majority Committee (CMC), a multicandidate political committee, mailed out letters soliciting contributions to CMC's independent expenditure project, "Americans for Phil Gramm in '84." The disclaimer notice in the first mailings failed to state that the solicitation was not authorized by any candidate. However, in subsequent solicitation mailings, CMC did include this disclaimer.

In filing a complaint with the FEC against CMC, Representative Gramm alleged that CMC had violated the election law by:

- o Using Representative Gramm's name in the title of its independent expenditure project (2 U.S.C. $432(e)(4)); and
- o Failing to clearly state in its solicitations that CMC had not been authorized by Representative Gramm (2 U.S.C. $441d(a)(3)).

The Commission found probable cause to believe that CMC had violated section 441d(a)(3) of the election law by failing to include a disclaimer notice in its first solicitation mailings. The Commission was, however, evenly divided on the issue of whether CMC had violated section 432(e)(4) of the election law by including Representative Gramm's name in the title of its independent expenditure project. In July 1985, the Commission entered into a conciliation agreement with CMC and closed the filed on the case.

After filing a complaint with the FEC, Representative Gramm took two other steps. He filed a suit with the District Court for the Eastern District of Virginia and a complaint with the U.S. Postal Service. In the suit he filed with the Virginia district court,* Representative

Gramm claimed that CMC's use of Mr. Gramm's name in the title of the independent expenditure project had violated a Virginia law against unauthorized use of a person's name. Nevertheless, the district court denied Representative Gramm's request for injunctive relief, stating that "the Federal Election [Campaign] Act arguably provides the exclusive remedy for plaintiff's allegation...."

In the complaint he filed with the U.S. Postal Service, Representative Gramm asserted that CMC's solicitations contained false representations and thus violated 39 U.S.C. $3005.

The Postal Service found, among other things, that the Committee's solicitation mailings "implicitly made the false representation that Americans for Phil Gramm in '84 was authorized to collect funds for Gramm's campaign, and that the funds would be spent by Gramm's campaign." The Postal Service further concluded that the disclaimer notice required by the election law ($441d(a)(3)) did not adequately inform the recipients that the solicitation was not authorized by Representative Gramm.

Current Case

The current case before the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit arose when Mr. Galliano appealed the Postal Service's decision. In filing a friend of the court brief in the suit, the FEC noted that Congress had enacted two provisions of the election law "to ensure the public is informed of the true source of political solicitations and whether they are authorized by a candidate " Section 432(e)(4) requires committees authorized by candidates to adopt a name which includes the candidate's name; it requires unauthorized committees to adopt a name which does not contain the name of anv candidate. Secondly, section 441d(a)(3)requires that fundraising solicitations bv committees state unauthorized clearly the committee's name and "that the communication is not authorized by any candidate or candidate's committee."

Further, the FEC argued, since Congress had granted the agency exclusive jurisdiction over provisions of the law, "matters covered by the Act must be brought before the Commission in the first instance even if another statute might otherwise arguably be applicable."

The FEC went on to note that "the courts have long recognized that tension between a statute of general application and a statute which specifically addresses a particular subject must be resolved in favor of the specific statute." The Commission therefore argued that, while section 3005 may be applied generally to protect the public from "fraudulent political fundraising schemes..." this provision cannot be applied "in a manner that overrides the exclusive jurisdiction continued of the Commission to deal with those matters Congress has specifically resolved in the FECA." Thus, the Commission concluded that "the Postal Service's decision should be reversed only to the extent it interferes with the exclusive jurisdiction of the Commission and specific provisions of the FECA."

ANTOSH v. FEC

On July 1, 1987, the U.S. District Court for the District of Columbia denied Mr. Edward Antosh's petition for award of costs and attorney's fees incurred by Mr. Antosh in a suit the court had ruled on in his favor. (Antosh v. FEC; Civil Action No. 84-3048)

District Court's Ruling on Original Complaint

In an administrative complaint filed with the FEC in May 1984, Mr. Antosh had alleged that the Tom Lantos for Congress Committee, the principal campaign committee for Mr. Lantos' the 1982 California House campaign, and the campaign's treasurer had violated section 441a(f) of the election law by accepting excessive contributions from the separate segregated funds of two affiliated unions. On October 1, 1984, after the FEC dismissed the complaint, Mr. Antosh filed a suit with the district court in which he asked the court to find that the FEC's dismissal was contrary to law.

On December 21, 1984, the district court granted Mr. Antosh's motion for summary judgment in the suit.* The court found that the FEC's dismissal of the complaint "had ignored persuasive evidence in the administrative record about the size of the union contributions...." The court therefore remanded the case to the FEC for further action in light of its decision.

District Court's Ruling on

Attorney's Fees and Costs

The Equal Access to Justice Act states that only those courts which have jurisdiction over the underlying civil action may consider whether to award attorney's fees and costs to a prevailing party. Upon reexamination of its ruling in 1984, the district court concluded that, in fact, Mr. Antosh did not have standing to bring his original suit. Consequently, the court could not grant plaintiff's petition for award of costs and attorney's fees.

Under Article III of the Constitution, in order to have standing to sue, an aggrieved party must "show that he personally suffered some actual or threatened injury as a result of the putatively illegal conduct of the respondent..." (i.e., the Lantos campaign). Since Mr. Antosh was an Oklahoma resident, the court concluded that he would not be injured by a California candidate's acceptance of excessive contributions. "Plaintiff's interest in the California election is no different from the interest of any citizen who wishes to ensure that candidates abide by the rules that govern elections," the court said. The court noted that this conclusion was the same as that reached by the court in July 1986 in a "virtually identical" suit brought by Mr. Antosh against the FEC. (Antosh v. FEC; Civil Action No. 86-179)

NEW LITIGATION

FEC v. Augustine For Congress

The Commission asks the district court to declare that Augustine for Congress (the Committee), the principal campaign committee for Israel M. Augustine's 1984 Congressional campaign, and Leon Fulton, the Committee's treasurer, violated the election law by:

- o Failing either to maintain adequate records of campaign contributions or to preserve records for the required three years (2 U.S.C. §$432(c)(2), (3) and (4) and 432(d));
- Failing to identify the source of 26 itemizable contributions (2 U.S.C. $434(b)(3)(A));
- o Failing to provide adequate year-to-date totals for such itemizable contributions (11 CFR 104.3(b)(4));
- o Failing to maintain adequate records for certain campaign disbursements (2 U.S.C. $432(c)(5));
- o Failing to itemize 26 campaign disbursements (2 U.S.C. $434(b)(5)(A));
- o Failing to file the Committee's 1985 mid-year report and its 1985 and 1986 year-end reports (2 U.S.C. §$434(a)(2)(A)(iii) and 434(a)(2)(B)(i) and (ii)); and
- o Understating certain financial transactions disclosed on Committee reports (2 U.S.C. $$434(b)(1),(2)and(4)).

The Commission also asks the court to declare that the Committee violated sections 432(c)(5) and (h)(1) of the election law by failing to:

- o Deposit receipts (amounting to $5,000) in the Committee's campaign account;
- o Use checks drawn on the account for disbursements made from these funds; and
- o Document these disbursements.

The Commission further asks the court to:

- Assess, as a civil penalty, the greater of either $5,000 or the amount involved in the defendants' violations;
- o Permanently enjoin defendants from future violations of the election law; and
- o Order defendants to file all the Committee's over-due reports within 15 days.

Jerald Wilson for Congress

A CAMPAIGN GUIDE FOR EVERY COMMITTEE

To help political committees understand the requirements of the federal election law, the Commission has written and published a series of Campaign Guides, each one designed for a distinct type of committee. Written in clear English, these Guides explain the basic provisions of the election law, such as contribution limitations and prohibitions, fundraising, and registration and re-Citations to regulations porting requirements. are included. Every Guide also provides examples of filled-out reporting forms to illustrate how committees should complete their reports. In addition, each Guide contains appendices targeted to its specific audience. These appendices deal with narrower topics such as independent expenditures, earmarked contributions, partnerships, and trade association solicitations.

Anyone involved in running a political committee or filing reports will find the Guide an important resource for complying with the law. Committee chairmen and treasurers should use the specific Guide designed for their committee. The four Guides — all available free of charge are:

- Campaign Guide for Congressional Candidates and Committees;
- o Campaign Guide for Corporations and Labor Organizations;
- Campaign Guide for Political Party Committees; and
- Campaign Guide For Nonconnected Committes.*
