Capital Punishment, 2009—Statistical Tables

Tracy L. Snell, BJS Statistician

t yearend 2009, 36 states and the Federal Bureau of Prisons held 3,173 inmates under sentence of death, which was 37 fewer inmates than at yearend 2008. This represents the ninth consecutive year that the population has decreased.

California, Florida, Texas, and Pennsylvania held half of all inmates on death row as of December 31, 2009. The Federal Bureau of Prisons held 55 inmates.

Of those under sentence of death at yearend, 56% were white, and 42% were black. The 376 Hispanic inmates under sentence of death accounted for nearly 14% of inmates with a known ethnicity. Ninety-eight percent of all inmates were male, and 2% were female. The race and gender of those under sentence of death has remained relatively unchanged since 2000.

During 2009, 149 inmates were removed from under sentence: 52 were executed*, 27 died by means other than execution, and 70 were removed as a result of sentences and/or convictions overturned or commutations of sentences. A total of 112 inmates were received under sentence of death during 2009, representing the smallest number of admissions since 1973 when 44 persons were admitted.

During 2009, 21 states and the Federal Bureau of Prisons received 112 prisoners under sentence of death. Admissions in California (29), Florida (15), Arizona (14), and Alabama (9) accounted for 60% of those sentenced to death in 2009.

Eleven states executed 52 inmates during 2009. The inmates executed in 2009 had been under sentence of death an average of 14 years and 1 month, which was about 30 months longer than for those executed in 2008.

Of the 7,773 people under sentence of death between 1977 and 2009, 15% had been executed, 5% died by causes other than execution, and 39% received other dispositions.

One state repealed its death penalty statute in 2009; 6 states revised statutes in 2009

At yearend 2009, the death penalty was authorized by 36 states and the federal government (see table 1). The New Mexico legislature repealed the death penalty in 2009 (Laws 2009, ch. 11 § 5). The repeal of the death penalty was effective for offenses committed after July 1, 2009. The repeal was not retroactive. As of December 31, 2009, New Mexico held two men under previously imposed death sentences, and one person was on trial with the state seeking the death penalty.

During 2009, 6 states revised statutory provisions relating to the death penalty. By state, the changes were as follows:

Idaho—Repealed the use of a firing squad as a method of execution (I.C. § 19-2716), effective July 1, 2009.

Maryland—Revised its criminal code to require DNA or other biological evidence, a video-taped confession, or a video recording that conclusively links the defendant to the murder in order to impose a death sentence (MD Code Ann., Crim. Law Art, § 2-202 (2009 Supp.)), effective October 1, 2009.

Nebraska—Authorized lethal injection as a method of execution (Neb. Rev. Stat. 83-964, (2009 Supp.)), effective August 30, 2009.

North Carolina—Amended the capital statute to prohibit imposition of a death sentence on the basis of race and establishing evidentiary standards and procedures to be used in the review of death sentences (NCGS § 15A-2010, § 15A-2011, and § 15A-2012), effective August 11, 2009.

Tennessee—Added to its list of aggravating circumstances murder committed in the course of aggravated child abuse, aggravated child neglect, and rape of a child (Tenn. Code Ann. § 39-13-204(i)(7)), effective August 15, 2009.

Utah—Revised its definition of aggravated murder to include murder committed by an offender previously convicted of felony discharge of a firearm (Utah Code Ann. § 76-5-202(j)), effective May 12, 2009.

Lethal injection was authorized by all states with capital statutes

As of December 31, 2009, all 36 states with death penalty statutes authorized lethal injection as a method of execution (table 2).

In addition to lethal injection, 17 states authorized an alternative method of execution. Nine states authorized electrocution, 4 states authorized lethal gas, 3 states authorized hanging, and 2 states authorized firing squad.

For states that authorize multiple methods of execution, the method is generally selected by the condemned prisoner. Six of the 17 states stipulated which method must be used depending on either the date of the offense or sentencing. One state authorized hanging only if lethal injection could not be given. Four states authorized alternative methods if lethal injection is ruled to be unconstitutional: 1 authorized electrocution, 1 authorized electrocution or firing squad, 1 authorized firing squad, and 1 authorized lethal gas.

The method of execution of federal prisoners is lethal injection, pursuant to 28 CFR, Part 26. For offenses under the Violent Crime Control and Law Enforcement Act of 1994, the method is that of the state in which the conviction took place (18 U.S.C. 3596).

Methodology

Capital punishment information is collected annually as part of the National Prisoner Statistics program (NPS-8). This data series is collected in two parts: data on persons under sentence of death are obtained from the department of corrections in each jurisdiction currently authorizing capital punishment; and information on the status of death penalty statutes is obtained from the Office of the Attorney General in each of the 50 States, the District of Columbia, and the Federal Government. Data collection forms are available on the BIS website.

NPS-8 covers all persons under sentence of death at any time during the year who were held in a state or federal nonmilitary correctional facility. Included are capital offenders transferred from prison to mental hospitals and those who may have escaped from custody. Excluded are persons whose death sentences have been overturned by the court, regardless of their current incarceration status.

The statistics reported in this bulletin may differ from data collected by other organizations for a variety of reasons: (1) NPS-8 adds inmates to the population under sentence of death not at sentencing but at the time they are admitted to a state or federal correctional facility; (2) if inmates entered prison under a death sentence or were reported as being relieved of a death sentence in one year but the court had acted in the previous year, the counts are adjusted to reflect the dates of court decisions (see the note on table 4 for the affected jurisdictions); and (3) NPS counts are always for the last day of the calendar year and will differ from counts for more recent periods.

All data in this report have been reviewed for accuracy by the data providers in each jurisdiction prior to publication.

Note: Some figures shown for yearend 2008 are revised from those reported in Capital Punishment, 2008 - Statistical Tables, NCJ 228662. The revised figures include 13 inmates who were either reported late to the National Prisoner Statistics program or were not in custody of state correctional authorities on December 31, 2008 (4 in Ohio, 3 in Texas, 2 in Indiana, and 1 each in Nebraska, Florida, Tennessee, and Nevada). The revised figures also exclude 10 inmates who were relieved of a death sentence before December 31, 2008 (3 in Idaho, and 1 each in Delaware, Oklahoma, Texas, Arizona, California, Nevada, and Oregon).

^aIncludes 23 deaths from natural causes (8 in California; 5 each in Alabama and Florida; and 1 each in Pennsylvania, Georgia, Kentucky, Texas, and Oregon) and 4 deaths from suicide (1 each in Pennsylvania, Georgia, California, and Nevada).

^bIncludes American Indians, Alaska Natives, Asians, Native Hawaiians, and other Pacific Islanders.

^dExcludes persons held under Armed Forces jurisdiction with a military death sentence for murder.

Executions resumed in 1977 when the Supreme Court found that revisions to several state statutes had effectively addressed the issues previously held unconstitutional (Gregg v. Georgia, 428 U.S. 153 (1976) and its companion cases).

Average time was calculated from the most recent sentencing date.
