

FEMA

August 20, 2010
Contact: FEMA News Desk 202-646-3272

Media Advisory

MONDAY: FEMA ADMINISTRATOR FUGATE TO ADDRESS NATIONAL COMMISSION ON CHILDREN AND DISASTERS

WASHINGTON-Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) Administrator Craig Fugate will address the National Commission on Children and Disasters public meeting Monday on how FEMA is coordinating with state and local governments, as well as with the private sector and non-profit organizations, to integrate the needs of children in planning for disaster response and recovery.

The National Commission on Children and Disasters is an independent, bipartisan commission established to examine and assess the needs of children in the preparation for, response to and recovery from all hazards. The Commission is chaired by Mark K. Shriver, Vice President and Managing Director for U.S. Programs at Save the Children.

What: National Commission on Children and Disasters Public Meeting

Who: FEMA Administrator Craig Fugate
U.S. Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) Assistant Secretary for Preparedness and Response Admiral Nicole Lurie
HHS Acting Assistant Secretary for Children and Families David Hansell

When: Monday, Aug. 23, 2010, 9:30 a.m.

Where: Administration for Children and Families
901 D Street, S.W., 7th Floor East
Washington, D.C. 20024

Media Registration: To attend either in person or via teleconference, register by contacting pcarter@acf.hhs.gov or call (202) 401-5124.

Follow FEMA online at www.twitter.com/fema, www.facebook.com/fema, and www.youtube.com/fema. Also, follow Administrator Craig Fugate's activities at www.twitter.com/craigatfema. The social media links provided are for reference only. FEMA does not endorse any non-government websites, companies or applications.

FEMA's mission is to support our citizens and first responders to ensure that as a nation we work together to build, sustain, and improve our capability to prepare for, protect against, respond to, recover from, and mitigate all hazards.