

Under the above rule, the Chair has held that a resolution providing for expenditures of money from the contingent fund of the Senate, when reported from the substantive committee must be referred, under the rule, to the Committee on Rules and Administration.<sup>2</sup>

The Committee on Rules and Administration, in its consideration of resolutions for investigations by other committees, has no authority to amend the substantive provisions thereof, but is limited to matters concerning the payment of the expenses of such investigations.<sup>3</sup>

An amendment authorizing the payment of money from the contingent fund of the Senate for a particular purpose, proposed to a Senate resolution relating to a different matter, is not in order unless it has received favorable consideration of the Committee To Audit and Control the Contingent Expenses of the Senate (now Committee on Rules and Administration).<sup>4</sup>
