Title: Serge Koussevitzky Archive

Span Dates: 1920-1976

Bulk Dates: (bulk 1924-1951)

Call No.: ML31.K66

Creator: Koussevitzky, Serge, 1874-1951

Extent: circa 13,000 items ; 138 boxes ; 100 linear feet

Language: Collection material in English

Location: Music Division, Library of Congress, Washington, D.C.

Summary: The archive is a collection of correspondence, personal and business papers, photographs, and other materials which document some of the most significant aspects of twentieth-century music. Through his work as a conductor and publisher, and his efforts to commission new musical works, Koussevitzky maintained deep ties with many of the finest composers and musicians of the day. These figures are represented in their personal and professional affiliations with the conductor. In addition to serving as a record of Koussevitzky's life and career, the collection extensively chronicles periods in the history of organizations such as the Boston Symphony Orchestra and the Berkshire Music Center, the Koussevitzky Music Foundation, and the American International Music Fund. Material in the collection dates from Koussevitzky's years in his native Russia. The bulk of the collection dates from 1924 to 1951; it also contains material created after Koussevitzky's death, reflecting his widow's continuing work with various organizations and projects. Musical compositions commissioned by Serge Koussevitzky are part of the Serge Koussevitzky Music Foundation Collection, and are shelved in ML30.3c, ML30.3c2, ML30.3c3, and ML30.3e2.

Note:

This finding aid represents only a portion of the Serge Koussevitzky Archive. The remainder of the collection is not yet processed; as further sections of the collection are completed, this finding aid will include the pertinent information.

A Geneology of the Ushkoff, Naumoff, and Koussevitzky Families

In an attempt to clarify the complex relationships between the Ushkoff, Naumoff and Koussevitzky families, I have arranged the names of family members -- as many as could be discovered in the available family correspondence -- in a vertical tabular format, as follows. This format was favored over the more traditional horizontal "family tree" format due to its superior legibility in view of the complexity of this geneology.

I have attempted to include as much information about each family member as is available: marriage dates (a "=" indicates a marriage; in the case of multiple marriages, names of spouses are preceded by a number between parentheses, indicating the order in which these marriages took place); birth and death dates (indicated by "*" and "+" respectively); and distant or uncertain family relationships (a "+" precedes the name of the family member).

In order to more readily identify various family members (many of whom possess the same name), each person appearing in this geneology has been assigned an identification number, appearing between square brackets ("[" "]"), and preceding the person's name. Family members have been further subdivided into arbitrarily named "generations," roughly grouping family members contemporary with each other. Available information is included here about family members belonging to "Generation 1" (the earliest members who can be identified) through "Generation 7" (the most recent members). Due to the complexity and sheer number of family members in the Ushkoff and Naumoff families, their geneological record appears first; that of the Koussevitzky family follows. In the case of the latter, family identification numbers pick up, within each generation, where those of the Ushkoff/Naumoff families have left off. Also, as the earliest available geneological information regarding the Koussevitzky family dates from the generation immediately preceding that to which Serge Koussevitzky belonged (that is, to the roughly contemporary "Generation 3" of the Ushkoff family), the Koussevitzky family records appearing in this section begin with the "Generation 3" designation. According to this numbering system, Serge Koussevitzky is listed as "[14]" when he first appears in this geneology as the husband of Natalie Ushkoff Koussevitzky ("[13]"); then also as "[69]" when appearing again in the Koussevitzky family list. Olga Naumoff Koussevitzky is listed as "[30]" in the Ushkoff/Naumoff Family list.

All names of family members are transliterated exactly from the Cyrillic, using (modified) Library of Congress transliteration standards; therefore the anglicized (or gallicized) "Ushkoff," "Na[o]umoff," and "Koussevitzky" become, respectively, "Ushkov," "Naumov," and "Kusevitskii" to accurately reflect their Russian spelling. Similarly, "Serge," "Natalie," and "Olga" become "Sergei," "Nataliia," and "Ol'ga," respectively. All Russian patronymics ("middle names," based on the name of a person's father) have been retained, as have traditional feminine forms of the family name (i.e., "Ushkova," "Kusevitzkaia").

Finally, this geneology was based on the work of musicologist Victor Yuzefovich, who participated in the processing and identification of much of the material contained in the Koussevitzky Archive, and without whose assistance this record could not have been created.

Scope and Content Note

The Serge Koussevitzky Archive is a remarkable collection of correspondence, personal and business papers, photographs, and other materials which document some of the most significant aspects of twentieth-century music. Through his work as a conductor and publisher, and his efforts to commission new musical works, Serge Koussevitzky, director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra from 1924 until his death in 1951, maintained deep ties with many of the finest composers and musicians of the day. These figures are represented in their personal and professional affiliations with the conductor. In addition to serving as a record of Koussevitzky's life and career, the collection extensively chronicles periods in the history of organizations such as the Boston Symphony Orchestra and the Berkshire Music Center, the Koussevitzky Music Foundation, and the American International Music Fund.

Material in the collection dates from Koussevitzky's years in his native Russia, where he began his conducting career and in 1909 established his publishing firm (known in the West as Editions Russes de Musique). The bulk of the collection dates from 1924 to 1951, when Koussevitzky held the Boston Symphony post. The collection also contains material created after Koussevitzky's death, reflecting his widow's continuing work with various organizations and projects.

This finding aid represents only a portion of the Koussevitzky Archive. The remainder of the collection is not yet processed; as further sections of the collection are completed, this finding aid will include the pertinent information.

The Serge Koussevitzky Archive was processed by Kate Rivers, Kevin LaVine, Loras Schissel, Wayne Shirley, et al.

Organization of the Serge Koussevitzky Archive

The Serge Koussevitzky Archive is organized in one series:

- Correspondence

Description of Series

Container

BOX 1-124

Series

Correspondence

The correspondence series is divided into eight sub-series. Items from a particular person or organization may be filed in more than one series, or sub-series, throughout the collection; it will be necessary to review materials in all sections to locate each piece of correspondence pertaining to a given person. The order preserves many parts of a system put in place by Olga Koussevitzky, who maintained paperwork and files for Serge Koussevitzky before and after their marriage.

There is a rough hierarchy of correspondence, ranging from the most significant in "General Correspondence" to the least detailed in "Greeting Cards."

Alternate or transliterated names or search terms are indicated between brackets following the name of the entry. Additional clarifying information is indicated between parentheses following the name of the entry.

BOX 1-65

General Correspondence

This material incorporates the portion of the collection which for many years was the only "processed" section of the Koussevitzky Archive; names of correspondents represented were noted in Music Division index files, and the material was made available to researchers. This group of correspondence is now greatly expanded, however. Items found here reflect the many important connections between the Koussevitzkys and leading musical and artistic figures of the first half of this century; also included is correspondence from prominent Boston-based patrons and close friends

Names which appear in the General Correspondence sub-series also may appear elsewhere in the collection; letters in this sub-series are often more personal or lengthy than those located in other sections of the collection. Each correspondent represented here is listed individually in the guide to this material.

BOX 66-94

Miscellaneous Correspondence

Items include a mixture of correspondence: solicitations from charitable organizations; routine invitations to events; and letters from some musical organizations
Materials are arranged in alphabetical order by correspondent.

BOX 95-105

Artists Correspondence

Correspondence consists largely of unsolicited letters from performers wishing to arrange auditions or concert appearances with Koussevitzky
Materials are arranged in alphabetical order by correspondent.

BOX 106-111

Family Correspondence

The first folder (106/1) contains information about family names, and explains the connections between different branches of the families of Serge Koussevitzky, Natalie Koussevitzky (née Oushkoff) and Olga Koussevitzky (née Naoumoff). Sections of this sub-series include: letters between Serge, Natalie, and Olga Koussevitzky; correspondence written by relatives of Serge Koussevitzky; correspondence of members of the Naoumoff family; and correspondence of members of the Oushkoff family.
Within each subseries, materials are arranged in alphabetical order by correspondent.

BOX 112-113

Appreciations, 1927-1950

Material here can be described as "fan mail." In large part, letters in this subseries are from concert goers and others who heard Koussevitzky perform, expressing gratitude for the conductor's service to music.

Materials are arranged chronologically.

BOX 114-119

Requests, 1925-1955

These letters make requests of Serge Koussevitzky: for example, requests that he program certain pieces on his concert series; requests that he make concert appearances, often for charitable causes; requests that he lend financial or other support to various organizations.

Materials are arranged chronologically.

BOX 120-121

Invitations

Items include invitations to musical events, charity functions, or other social occasions.

Materials are arranged generally by category.

BOX 122-124

Greeting Cards

Cards here were sent to Serge, Natalie, or Olga Koussevitzky on birthdays, Christmas, or other occasions. Most items are signed, but for generally contain no other messages.

Materials are arranged by name of addressee.
