OVERVIEW

Overview

In this activity, students will learn about an important national symbol: the American flag. Students will analyze an image of an American flag from the post-Civil War era (1865-7) and compare its details (i.e., the stars and stripes) to those of our nation's flag today. This activity may be extended so that students analyze other national symbols to consider their importance to Americans.

Objectives

After completing this activity, students will be able to:

- Identify the American flag as a national symbol
- Analyze details of this symbol
- Compare two different versions of the American flag to understand why this symbol has changed over time

Time Required

One class period

PROCEDURE

Activity

1. Working with the entire class, explore students' understanding of a symbol by drawing their attention to the classroom's American flag. Ask the following questions to frame the discussion:
  - Where else have you seen the American flag?
(e.g., at home, government buildings, on TV, etc.)
  - When have you seen a lot American flags in many places?
(e.g., on the Fourth of July, Memorial Day, etc.)
  - Why do you think people fly the American flag? What does it mean?
(e.g., it means the United States of America, it means our home, etc.)
2. Acknowledge students' responses about the American flag's meaning and introduce the word, "symbol" by writing it on the board. Tell students that the flag is a symbol—something that stands for or represents something else. Reiterate students' responses about what the flag stands for. Tell students that symbols make people feel certain emotions.
  - How does the American flag make you feel? (e.g., proud, happy, etc.)
3. Explain that in this activity, students will be taking a closer look at the American flag, a symbol of our nation, to learn more about how this symbol has changed over time and why.
4. First, focus students' attention on the classroom's flag. Model the observation and analysis process by guiding the entire class in viewing the flag's details. Ask the following questions:
  - What do you see?
(e.g., white stars, blue square, white and red stripes, etc.)
  - What do you think you know about this flag?
(e.g., it's old, it's an American flag)
  - What do you want to know?
5. Now display the image of the Thirty-Six Star United States flag and pass out copies of the Analysis Sheet.
6. Working with the entire class, repeat the observation and analysis process modeled above but this time, complete the Analysis Sheet together step-by-step while viewing the image. Use the Analysis Sheet questions to guide students through the process:
  - What do you see?
(e.g., white stars, blue square, white and red stripes, etc.)
  - What do you think you know about this flag?
(e.g., it's old, it's an American flag)
  - What do you want to know?

Learning Activity – Elementary Level

PROCEDURE (CONT'D)

7. Next, keep the image on display while bringing students' attention back to the classroom's flag as well. Working with the entire class, guide students through a comparison of the two flags. Possible questions include:
  - How is this flag (the image) different from our classroom's flag? How is it the same?
  - How many stripes are on this flag? How many stripes are on our flag? (count aloud)
  - How many stars are on this flag? How many stars are on our flag? (count aloud)
8. Share the history of the American flag as a national symbol. Explain that both flags are American flags but the one with fewer stars is older; it was made many years ago after the Civil War ended. While the American flag itself is a national symbol, the stars and stripes on it are symbols, too. Tell students that as a nation, we decided to keep the number of stripes the same to honor the original 13 colonies. But we have added a new star to the flag every time a new state joins the union.
  - How many states made up the United States long ago when the older flag was created? (i.e., 36 stars = 36 states)
  - How many states make up the United States today?
9. Conclude by asking students to think about the following questions:
  - How do you think the American flag might change in the future?
10. (Optional) Distribute copies of the National Symbols Chart. Working with the entire class, guide students in completing the row labeled "American Flag" with information from the class analysis and discussion.
11. Students may complete the Flag Worksheet in class or as a homework assignment.

EXTENSION

- Share and analyze with students the portrait of Francis Scott Key and Key's "The Star-Spangled Banner" manuscript.
- Each day of the week, repeat the process of using the Analysis Sheet to analyze a different national symbol (e.g., Statue of Liberty) from the National Symbols Chart. When the charts are complete, ask students to choose the national symbol they think is most important and explain their choices using information from their charts.

EVALUATION

- Observation of student participation during discussions.
- Evaluation of the completed Analysis Sheet.
- Evaluation of the completed Flag Worksheet.
