

The Harleian Society Series

Introduction

The Harleian Society was organized on May 28, 1869 in England. Its chief objective was the publication of the Heraldic Visitations of Counties and any manuscripts relating to genealogy, family history, and heraldry.

Three different series of volumes were published: The Visitation Series, The Register Series, and The New Series. The Library of Congress has most of these volumes.

Beginning about 1530, and continuing into the late 1600s, heralds visited regions throughout Britain, Wales, Scotland, and Ireland for the purpose of establishing pedigrees and ancestry relationships. Many of those regions were visited more than once over a period of years.

This project of gathering pedigrees began because of rampant misuse of coats of arms and false declarations of nobility. As the heralds visited each region, they summoned people who were using titles, or arms, and had them present their arms and proof of their right to use them. If an official grant of arms was made, it was recorded.

The visitation series includes a narrative description of each family, as well as a pedigree chart. Branches of large families were labeled by region, and relationships were clearly defined. Birth and death dates were not usually given. Remember, the visitations are not infallible. The documents presented may not have been accurate, and the heralds may have recorded details incorrectly.

The Register Series includes records of baptisms, marriages, and burials in various regions of England beginning in the 1500s. The New Series contains information left out of the other two series. Most of the volumes in all three series are in book form unless otherwise stated in the list below.

Finding the Harleian Society Series in the Library of Congress:

Look for the Call Number listed at the bottom of each entry. Volumes listed as LH&G REF can be found in the Local History & Genealogy Reading Room. Other volumes may be obtained by filling out a call slip in the Reading Room. Volumes on microfilm may be requested in the Microfilm Reading Room. When filling out a request for a book or microfilm, be sure to indicate the correct volume number.

Locating a Title in the Library's Online Catalog (<http://catalog.loc.gov/>):

Click on Library Catalogs, and then on Basic Search. Type only the bold portions of the title into the search window, highlight Title/Keyword, and click Begin Search. Most of the catalog entries will open up immediately. If more than one choice is given, choose the entry with the correct published date listed after the title from the following lists.
