

Louise McGlathery
Acting Assistant Inspector General and
Deputy Assistant Inspector General for Management

Louise McGlathery, the current Deputy Assistant Inspector General for Management, was appointed Acting Assistant Inspector General for Management on March 1, 2011.

Prior to her promotion to Deputy Assistant Inspector General, she served as the Office of Inspector General's Chief Information Officer.

Ms. McGlathery has over twenty years of experience managing administrative and operational support organizations. Her responsibilities include the development and implementation of the Office of Inspector General's organizational policies and standard operating procedures as well as the development and day-to-day oversight of the Office's operational budgets, its contracts and acquisitions, and its information security program.