

Dr. Mihail Kritikos

Dr. Kritikos is a Research Programme Manager for the Research Directorate General of the European Commission and is responsible for ethical and governance issues arising in the frame of the Commission' FP7 Ethics Review procedure. Mihail is a qualified practicing lawyer, member of the Athens Bar Association and of the International Law Association. He holds a PhD in EU Biotechnology and Environmental Law from the London School of Economics and Political Science (LSE-Department of Law) and Masters Degrees on EU and International Institutional Law and Environmental Law and Management.

He is the holder of the 2008 UACES Prize for the Best PhD Thesis in European Studies in Europe and of the 2004-2008 EPEES Prize for the Best Thesis written by a Greek Researcher. He has published extensively on issues related to New Forms of Governance, EU Institutional, Environmental, Biotechnology and Food Law, EU External Relations Law and International Environmental and Trade Law. Before joining the European Commission, Mihail had been a Lecturer at the University of Exeter (Department of Law) and taught European Union Law and Institutions for several years in the LSE. He is a visiting Lecturer in the Academy of European Law.