² Jesse C. Duke later served in the Railway Mail Service.

⁵ George W. Evans later served as a letter carrier at the Louisville Post Office.

³ Scipio A. Jordon/Jordan later served as a letter carrier at the Little Rock Post Office.

⁴ John W. Curry later served as a letter carrier at the Washington, D.C., Post Office.

⁶ According to the April 29, 1894, issue of the Boston Daily Globe, William H. Dupree was the manager of Station A in the South End, and oversaw the work of 26 carriers and clerks. He was one of Boston's highest-paid postal employees at the time.

⁷ John K. Crump transferred to the Railway Mail Service in 1878.
