

Edward J. Dorris Chief Information Officer

Edward J. Dorris is the Chief Information Officer (CIO) at the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency (OCC).

In this role, Mr. Dorris leads all OCC information technology (IT) programs, supporting the agency's mission of ensuring the safety and soundness of national banks as well as fair and equal access to financial services for all Americans. He became CIO in November 2010. The office of the CIO reports to the Senior Deputy Comptroller for Management and Chief Financial Officer.

Mr. Dorris previously served as Deputy CIO and Acting CIO. He joined the OCC in 2008.

Prior to joining the OCC, Mr. Dorris served as CIO for the Financial Crimes Enforcement Network and Deputy CIO for the Department of Housing and Urban Development. He has more than 25 years of IT experience. He has worked in IT program management, enterprise architecture, systems integration and deployment, capital planning and portfolio management. He has also worked on information technology projects at the Department of Transportation, Department of the Treasury, and private sector organizations.

Mr. Dorris obtained his bachelor's degree in general studies from American University.

