

Trends in Veterans with a Service-Connected Disability: 1985 to 2011

Prepared by the National Center for Veterans Analysis and Statistics

May 2012

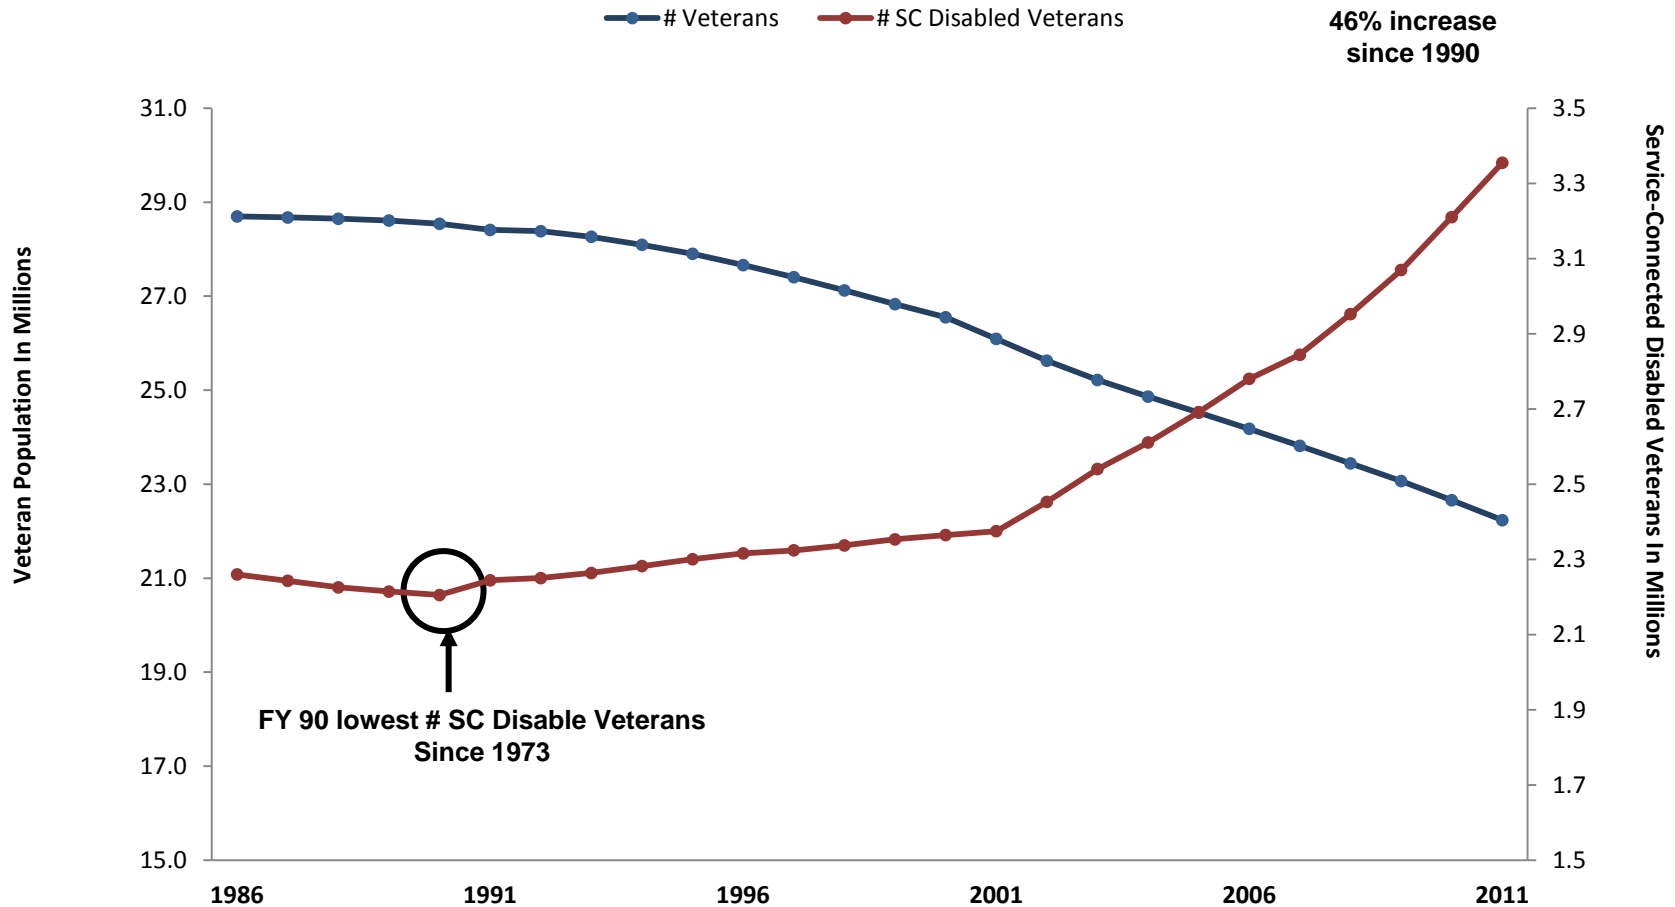

Data Source

- Data regarding Veterans with service-connected disabilities were derived from individual Annual Benefits Reports published on the VA website - <http://www.vba.va.gov/REPORTS/abr/index.asp> .
- The data were supplemented using annual extracts of VA's disability payment files.
- For details regarding estimates of the total Veteran population, see VetPop 2007 Technical Documentation.

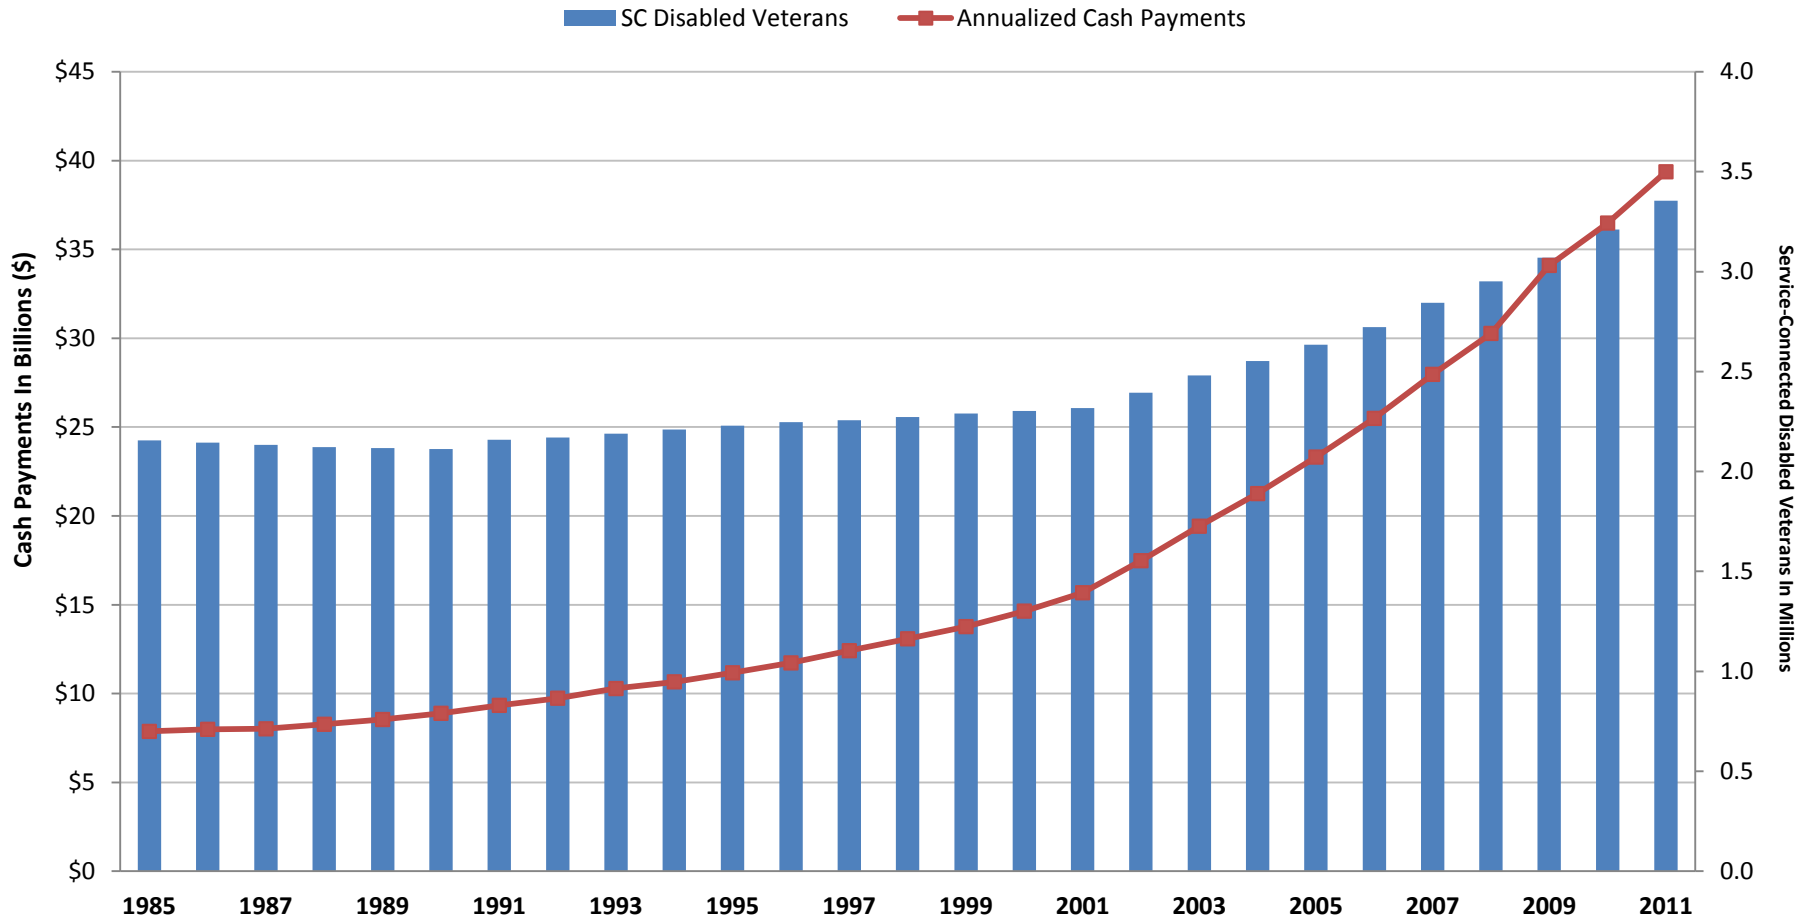

What is a service-connected disability?

- "Service-connected" means the disability was a result of disease or injury incurred or aggravated during active military service. These disabilities are evaluated according to the Department of Veterans Affairs' (VA) Schedule for Rating Disabilities in Title 38, U.S. Code of Federal Regulations, Part 4.
- Service-connected disability ratings are graduated based on the degree of the Veteran's disability on a scale of 0 to 100 percent, in increments of 10 percent.
- Zero percent is a valid rating and is different than having no rating at all.

The Veteran population has been declining since 1985 while the number of Veterans with a service-connected disability has been on the rise.

The rate of increase in cash payments is outpacing the growth in the number of Veterans with a service-connected disability.

Source: Department of Veterans Affairs, Veterans Benefits Administration Annual Benefits Reports, 1985-2011.
Prepared by the National Center for Veterans Analysis and Statistics.

Growth in the number of Veterans with a service-connected disability is concentrated among those rated 50 percent or higher.

Source: Department of Veterans Affairs, Veterans Benefits Administration Annual Benefits Reports, 1985-2011.
Prepared by the National Center for Veterans Analysis and Statistics.

In recent fiscal years, Veterans granted Compensation for the first time have received higher initial ratings compared with those who were granted Compensation in the late 1980s.

Contact Information for This Report

Eddie Thomas

Department of Veterans Affairs

Office of Policy and Planning

National Center for Veterans Analysis and Statistics

Eddie.Thomas3@va.gov

(202)461-1096

For general inquiries, please e-mail us at VANCVAS@va.gov.