MOVING TO THE NATIONAL INSTITUES OF HEALTH

A Guide to Help You Move to Frederick, Baltimore, and Bethesda

July 2008

This document is intended for informational purposes only and does not constitute advice. These materials do not provide an inclusive list of all companies and/or services available. Inclusion of companies and/or services in this list does not imply approval or support of these companies and/or services by the National Institutes of Health, the Department of Health and Human Services or the United States Government.

MOVING TO THE NIH

Table of Contents

General Information: The Baltimore-Washington Corridor	3
Washington DC	8
Maryland	16
Frederick	18
Montgomery County	22
Baltimore	28
Virginia	34

General Information: Moving to the Baltimore-Washington Corridor

Welcome to the NIH! The main campus of the National Institutes of Health is located just a few miles outside of Washington DC, the nation's capital and home to over half a million people. DC is also located between the Appalachian Mountains, the Atlantic Ocean, and the Chesapeake. Over 2/3 of the US population is within 8 hours of the DC metro area, providing DC residents with access to a wealth of cultural, educational, and recreational opportunities. New York, Boston, and Chicago are all within a day's drive, as is the Canadian border.

The main NIH campus in Bethesda, Maryland is home to over 26,000 employees who work on any number of biomedical, biophysical, and psychological issues. You will be part of a large community of researchers, fellows, and employees who are striving to improve medical research, training and care throughout the world. You will also be part of a larger community of Federal employees and trainees who are working in the DC area.

As a result of its central location and its being the headquarters for the Federal government, as well as any number of government-funded and government-sponsored agencies, embassies, and non-profit organizations, the DC area population is both politically charged and transient. People move in and out every few years, generating a mix of ethnicities, nationalities, stages of life, socioeconomic classes, and so on. If you are looking for a place that has a variety of cultures and living styles, DC is such a place.

DC area housing ranges from older, larger homes to condominium high rises. Cost of living increases with proximity to public transportation, the type of neighborhood and accessibility to the downtown area. As a result, housing in Maryland and Northern Virginia is generally less expensive and provides a more suburban feel. Such areas also tend to have more public services, shopping and recreation options, and lower taxes. A car is often necessary if you choose to live outside of downtown. In the metro area a car can sometimes be cumbersome, as parking is not always easy and is rarely cheap. Public transportation in the city, however, is excellent. Rents vary widely based not only on the above listed factors but also on the crime rate, school quality, and age of the neighborhood. Links that will help you access these statistics are included in this guide.

The purpose of this document is to help make your transition to the NIH as easy and stress-free as possible. We cannot anticipate every need you might have, but this guide will hopefully help you through the major adjustments you will need to make on relocating to the area. Information is also provided on campuses in Baltimore and Frederick. If you are moving to another area, such as Phoenix, Rocky Mountain Labs, or NIEHS, contact your program coordinator for information on adjusting to the location, as well as any resources they may have regarding finding housing, employment, schooling, transportation, and so forth.

We are delighted that you are joining the NIH and hope that your time with us is as productive, educational and enjoyable as possible!

Airports

There are three major airports in the DC Metro area: Baltimore/Washington International Thurgood Marshall Airport (BWI), Washington Dulles International Airport (IAD), and Ronald Reagan Washington National Airport (DCA).

BWI is located about 30 miles from downtown DC and a few miles outside of Baltimore. There is hourly, daily, express service and long term parking within the immediate area. BWI is accessible by Amtrak and MARC trains from Union Station and New Carrollton (which are accessible by Metro). A free shuttle bus connects the BWI Airport Rail Station and the airport. The BWI Express bus also runs from the Greenbelt Metro station on the Green Line to BWI's Concourse E. The airport is also accessible by taxi for approximately $60 one-way from downtown DC.

Dulles is located in Chantilly, Virginia, approximately 28 miles from downtown DC. Hourly, daily, long-term, and valet parking are available. Metrobus operates a bus from the L'Enfant Plaza Metro station, stopping at the Rosslyn metro station, the Tysons-Westpark Transit Station and the Herndon-Monroe Park and Ride Lot. This bus offers service to the airport. Within Loudoun County in Virginia, Virginia Transit offers hourly service on weekdays between the airport and the Dulles Town Center. The Washington Flyer bus travels from the West Falls Church Metro station to Dulles. Dulles is also accessible by taxi; fares are approximately $50 one-way from downtown DC.

Reagan National is located in Arlington, Virginia, approximately 5 miles from the center of DC. Hourly, daily, and long-term parking are available. The airport is accessible via the Metro with its own stop on the Blue and Yellow Lines. Shuttles also run between the Metro station and the main Terminal A. The airport is also accessible by bus, with Metrobuses connecting the National Mall and Arlington National Cemetery stopping at the base of the subway station. Taxi fare is approximately $15 one-way from downtown DC. Amtrak and Greyhound also service this airport.

Transportation to and from airports is also offered by chauffeur services and SuperShuttle. SuperShuttle is a door-to-door shared ride van service that will pick you and your luggage up before the flight for a flat rate, depending on how far they have to travel. The Airport Shuttle and GO Airport Shuttle are other door-to-door airport shuttle services servicing the DC metro area.

Banking

In addition to the local and national banks listed under each region, there is also the opportunity to use banking that is almost totally online. Companies providing such services include ING
Direct, Chase and E*TRADE. There are advantages and disadvantages to using such a service; look into it fully before you decide where to keep your money.

Also, the NIH offers its own credit union, available for free to NIH employees and trainees and their families. Please see the NIH Federal Credit Union website for information on their loan rates, locations, account types, and so forth.

Craigslist

Craigslist.com is a great resource no matter which area of the country you are moving to. It provides a venue for people living in many major metropolitan areas to list things they wish to buy, sell or give away, or roommates they hope to find. There are also local job and housing listings. Take a look at the website from time to time if you have an identified need, as the website is updated by users on a daily basis. Keep in mind that this site is not monitored for the truthfulness of postings and so be on your guard when purchasing items or inviting people into your home. Similar services are provided by classified ads in local newspapers, such as the Washington Post and the Washingtonian.

Employment

If you or other family members are searching for a job in your new location, there are many internet resources that can provide helpful information. Some major national websites that provide job listings for many different types of employment include Careerbuilder, Careers.org, CareerJet.com, The Vault, Craiglist.com and Yahoo Careers. For medical or biotech jobs specifically, MedZilla offers employment listings at a variety of major employers.

Local newspapers are also a good source of information regarding area jobs. The Department of Labor is a good resource, not only for job searching, but also for information on other career fields. This includes average salaries and job projections for many different fields in the next several years. The Occupational Outlook Handbook also provides information on different jobs, such as training and education, earnings, and expected job prospects.

Finding Housing

In addition to Craigslist.com, there are many other national websites that provide information on apartments for rent throughout the country. The following list is by no means inclusive and you should use the Internet and other resources at your disposal to continue your search for quality, affordable housing: MyCheapApartments.com, Apartment Ratings, Apartment Guide, Apartments.com, Apartment Search and Rent.com. The NIH also maintains a housing website through R&W, the Recreation and Welfare Association at the NIH.

There are many factors to keep in mind when renting, especially when renting a home. These include whether or not the rent can be raised during the lease, who has access to the home, how utilities are handled, who to contact for maintenance, if you are allowed to sublet, and who controls the heat and air conditioning.

If you are looking to buy a home, some major realtors include Long and Foster, Coldwell Banker, Century 21, and Re/Max. For information on housing specifically in Virginia, the Virginia Association of Realtors maintains listings and information on the state's real estate market. You can use their or another real estate company's services or find a home on your own. Many newspapers and online housing sites also provide lists of homes for sale. Also, if you are a member of NIHFCU, they have their own partnership with CU Realty that allows unlimited access to home listing databases, information on local schools, neighborhood demographics, and a cash rebate when you buy or sell through an approved agent.

One other thing to consider is a cost of living change between your current location and your final destination. There are multiple online cost-of-living calculators to help you assess what changes you can expect in prices and costs, as well as what sort of change in your salary is necessary to maintain your current standard of living. Websites such as CNN Money, Salary.com, and BankRate.com provide information on cost-of-living differences between major US metropolitan areas. HomeFair.com and the Riley guide also provide information on relocating, including cost of living and salary calculators, moving companies, and reports on local schools.

Grocery Stores

There are many specialized, local grocery stores throughout the Baltimore-Washington area that are not listed here, but these are some of the main grocery chains in the area:

Albertsons

Bloom

Cost Plus World Market

Costco

Food Lion

Giant

Magruders

My Organic Market

Safeway

Trader Ioe's

Weis Markets

Whole Foods Market

For information on local grocery stores or stores featuring a particular type of food item, you can use a Google search or check your local phone directory.

Places of Interest

You can also use a Google search to find places of interest. Go to Google Maps and type in your address. From there you can click on "Find businesses" and then locate places of interest in your area by typing in a keyword describing what you are looking for (e.g. grocery store, restaurant, library, etc.). You can also search for directions to a particular location by clicking on "Get directions" and entering the address or cross street of your destination.

The Places of Interest Guide provides information on almost 2,000 places, including colleges and universities, hospitals, libraries, places of worship, post offices and metro stations. If you are looking for information on where to go in the area for food, nightlife, or entertainment, there are multiple websites that provide this information. Some major websites include the Washington Post and the Washingtonian magazine. While these focus on what to do in the DC area, they also provide information about events in the surrounding areas. The Internet also has a wealth of independent resources discussing things to do in the DC area that may be of interest.

Places of Worship

Verizon Superpages offers a map-based search feature as well as a listing of places of worship by affiliation. You can also search via Google or Mapquest for places of worship located near you.

Post Offices

To find a post office in your area, visit the USPS website and click on "Locate a Post Office." You can also use this website to purchase postage, track packages, find zip codes and change your address. FedEx and UPS also offer shipping services.

Statistics and Safety

For statistics on anything from cancer rates to employment to the environment, the Federal government maintains a website of statistics. They are searchable by area and include international comparisons. The United States Census Bureau also maintains information on populations, income, and economic indicators.

Moving to Washington DC

There are a number of interesting and engaging things to see and do in the DC area, whether you live in the city itself or the surrounding area. Some websites that provide information on local activities are Explore DC, H-DC, Washington DC.org and Cultural Tourism DC.

Some popular locations to visit include The Smithsonian Institute, The U.S. Holocaust Memorial Museum, The National Archives, The Library of Congress, The National Library of Medicine, The Folger Shakespeare Library and The National Mall.

Apart from museums and libraries, the major government seats of the Federal government are located in DC. These include The White House, The House of Representatives, The Senate, and The Supreme Court of the United States. For information on the embassies located in DC, visit the Embassy website.

Maps of the area can be found at AboutDC.gov.

Animals and Pets

The Washington Humane Society provides information on donations and volunteering, as well as fostering and adopting pets. GoodDogz.org is a metro DC organization that supports dog rescue organizations and dog adopters by providing free resources for new pet owners. The Washington Animal Rescue League and Friends of Homeless Animals also provide options for adopting and volunteering.

Wildlife sanctuaries are located throughout the DC area. A list of these sanctuaries can be found at the Metropets website, along with information about local dog parks.

Banking

There are a number of both national and local banks serving the DC area. Some of these are listed below. However, this list is not inclusive and we encourage you to choose a bank that meets your financial needs. You can use the Yellow Pages or other online resources to find a complete listing of banks in the DC area.

Bank of America
Bank of Georgetown
BB & T
Chase
Chevy Chase Bank
Citibank
Eagle Bank

The Adams National Bank

Industrial Bank

M & T Bank
PNC Bank
SunTrust Bank
Wachovia
Washington Mutual

Child Care

Information on early child care and education is provided by the Department of Education. Further information can be found at the Education Center website. The NIH also provides child care for its employees through the Office of Research Services but there is a wait list; you may need to seek external sources for child care.

Courts

For information on the courts system of DC, as well as self-representation, marriage licenses, and job listings, please visit the District of Columbia Courts website.

Customer Service Operations

This website provides information on services provided to DC residents by the Department of Public Works, Department of Transportation, and Department of Health. You can request anything from leaf collection to animal pick-up by calling the Mayor's Citywide Call Center at 311 or filling out a form (accessible via the website).

Dining

DC houses a wealth of international and specialty cuisines, both in the city and in the surrounding suburbs. Here are some websites with information about and reviews of many of the local restaurants:

Active Diner

DC Pages Restaurant Guide

DC Registry Dining Guide

DineSite.com

Open Table

Washington DC.com

Washingtonian

Washington Post

Employment

For those seeking employment in the DC area, there are many websites to assist you in your search. The Washington Post lists many local job opportunities, as does DC Jobs.

For other similar employment websites, please visit the DC government website. A list of local employment agencies is provided by the DC government and can help you find employment in the metropolitan area.

Employment information within Washington DC is provided by the Department of Human Resources. Information for federal jobs can be found at DC Job Source, USAJobs, FedJobs, and GOVJOBS. The Department of Employment Services also provides job listings.

Farmers Markets

Farmers markets provide a venue for local farms and small businesses to sell their products in a centralized location. These markets can include anything from fresh fruit and produce to cider to baked goods to handmade soaps and furniture. The Washington Post has compiled a list of local farmers markets, complete with websites, dates and times, and contact information. Generally farmers markets only operate in late spring, summer, and early fall. Contact individual markets for more details. FreshFarm Markets also provides information on Maryland and DC farmers markets.

Finding Housing

In addition to the initial section on finding housing, here are some websites and resources that might prove useful in finding acceptable housing:

Apartment Showcase

Homes Database

Washington City Paper: (focuses on housing to share)

The Washington Times

For information on housing credits, taxes, and so forth, the following websites may be of service:

DC Ownership Opportunities

First-Time Home Buyer Tax Credit

Home-Buying Workshops

Real Property Taxes

Rental Housing Commission

Tenant's Guide to Safe and Decent Housing

Many neighborhoods in the DC area maintain websites with information about local events, neighborhood statistics, shopping, restaurants, and so on. Another resource for information by neighborhood can be found on the Cultural Tourism website. DC Pages also provides information on many neighborhoods, as well as input from DC residents.

Local universities also provide housing information for their students that may prove useful to you in your housing search. Some of the universities with more helpful websites include:

American University
The Catholic University of America
The George Washington University
Georgetown University
Howard University

Healthcare and Hospitals

The Washingtonian magazine provides rankings of doctors in the greater DC area. This website provides information on not only family practitioners, but also specialists in a number of fields.

Your healthcare provider will be able to give you information about which hospitals and doctors are covered under your insurance. Listed are some of the major area hospitals. There are also medical facilities located in Montgomery County and in Virginia.

Children's National Medical Center
The George Washington University Hospital
Georgetown University Hospital
Howard University Hospital
National Rehabilitation Hospital
Providence Hospital
Sibley Memorial Hospital
Washington Hospital Center

K-12 Education

The District of Columbia website provides multiple ways to search for and evaluate schools throughout the District. They provide school listings; you can also search for schools by ward or by keyword. The website also features a "compare schools" function that provides lists of schools with particular characteristics, including alternative and charter schools. Student performance statistics can also be found on this website.

The Archdiocese of Washington maintains a list of Catholic schools in the area. The Association of Independent Schools of Greater Washington provides a list of independent schools, as well as a job bank and information on upcoming independent school events. The DC Public Charter School Board and the District of Columbia Public Schools also provide information on K-12 education.

Information on preschools, K-12 schools and post-secondary schools, as well as parental support resources, can be found at the District of Columbia's Education Center. Information on rules and regulations, types of schools, calendars, and so forth can be found at the Education Center.

Libraries

For locations of libraries throughout the metropolitan area, please visit the DC Library website. The website also provides information on applying for a library card, checking out books, performing research and using library resources.

Newspapers

Newspapers in the area include the Washington Post and the Washington Times. These newspapers provide not only information about daily news, but also have sections on jobs, real estate, classified ads, and so forth. The Washingtonian is a monthly magazine providing news stories as well as ratings by DC area residents on restaurants, doctors, and schools, and information on events, travel, homes and other topics of interest.

Newspapers in DC specifically include the Washington City Paper, which provides information on music and entertainment and the Washington Business Journal.

Performing Arts

General information on performing arts in the DC area is provided by a number of sources, most prominently by the local papers. Information on particular events can also be found on the respective websites. Here are some major performing arts groups and venues in the area and their corresponding websites.

Arena Stage

Birchmere

Capitol Hill Arts Workshop

Clarice Smith Performing Arts Center

Daughters of the American Revolution Constitution Hall

District of Columbia Arts Center

Folklore Society of Greater Washington

Ford's Theatre

Lisner Auditorium

Kennedy Center

National Theatre

Shakespeare Theater Company

Strathmore

Studio Theatre

Warner Theatre

Washington National Opera

Washington Performing Arts Society

Wolf Trap Foundation for the Performing Arts

Woolly Mammoth Theatre Company

Other popular music venues, both large and small, can be found at DC's Resident Resource Center.

Post-Secondary Education

For information on training opportunities, please visit the Training portion of the DC Government's Resident Resource Center. Some local universities also provide training and education in career development areas. For further information you can also directly contact local educational institutions.

There are a number of colleges and universities in the DC area. These include:

American University
Catholic University of America
Gallaudet University
George Washington University
Georgetown University
Howard University
University of the District of Columbia

Other schools in the DC metro area also offer 2-year, 4-year, graduate and professional education.

Recreation

The Department of Parks and Recreation provides information on parks in the DC area. There is also a National Arboretum and the National Park Service, as well as the National Zoo, which is located in Rock Creek Park. The DC Registry also provides information on recreation groups within the city. For specific venues for parks and recreation areas in DC, please visit the appropriate link: tennis courts, swimming pools, senior recreation program centers, recreation centers, large parks, triangle parks, and unstaffed parks.

The DC official tourism website provides information on many tourist destinations in the area. DC is also home to a number of museums and galleries. Sports are also a popular source of recreation. This includes participation in a league or team and attendance at professional sporting events. DC boasts professional teams playing hockey (The Capitals), men's soccer (DC United), women's soccer (Freedom), women's basketball (Mystics), men's baseball (The Nationals), football (The Redskins) and men's basketball (The Wizards). Many local universities also have nationally ranked sports teams; contact the particular school or team for information and to see a schedule.

Local area sports leagues include The Amateur Softball Association, The DC Metro Senior and Adult Baseball League, Mid-Atlantic Volleyball, Neighborhood Athletic Association, Northwest Washington Little League, and The Onsports Soccer League.

There are likewise many local sports organizations. Among these are Bike Washington, Capital Rowing Club, DC Registry Sports Page, DC Road Runners, DC Ski, Kayak and Canoe Club, Washington Area Bicyclist Association. The NIH also sponsors its own Recreation and Welfare Association. This group provides discount recreation tickets and organizes events for the NIH community; membership is a nominal yearly fee.

Statistics and Safety

For information on local crimes statistics by neighborhood, as well as monthly and yearly crime statistics, visit the Metropolitan Police Department. You can also find your police district, or get more information about a particular district.

Important phone numbers, including numbers of the Department of Public Works, Poison Center, and the Metropolitan Police Department, can also be located online.

Taxes

For information on DC taxes, including property, income, and business taxes, please visit the Office of Tax and Revenue. This website also provides information about earned income tax credits and tax rates and revenues. For information on Federal income taxes for individuals, please visit the IRS website. There is also online information for Federal business and small business taxes.

Transportation

One of the most common forms of public transportation is run by the Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Authority, commonly referred to as Metro, which provides both rail and bus service throughout the greater DC area.

Amtrak provides train services in DC and the surrounding area. The main station in DC is Union Station, located close to the Capitol and accessible via Metrorail and Metrobus. Commuter rail is also available via MARC, which provides rail service in the greater DC area, including Maryland and West Virginia. Virginia Railway Express also provides service to Virginia locations.

Buses are also available to take you out of the DC area. Greyhound and Peter Pan provide service into and out of DC and across the country. Both Virginia and Maryland also have their own local bus systems that sync up with the Metro systems.

If you are interested in riding your bike to work or around town, DC maintains a website regarding bicycle routes in the DC area, as does the Department of Transportation for the District.

Utilities

For information on energy deregulation, visit the website compiled by the Washington Post.

Electricity is provided by Potomac Electric Power Company (PEPCO) and other companies such as Baltimore Gas and Electric Company and Allegheny Power. Gas is provided by companies including Washington DC Gas, Baltimore Gas and Electric Company, also Chesapeake Utilities. American Water services the DC area's water needs. Telephone services are provided by companies including Cox Communications, Qwest, and Verizon. Some major cable providers include Comcast, Verizon and RCN.

Sewer and public works are provided by the DC Sewer and Water Authority and the Department of Public Works, respectively. The Washington Post has assembled a list of some of the many Internet providers in the DC area. Information on recycling, including what is recyclable in DC, can be found at the Office of Recycling website.

This list is not necessarily inclusive. There may be other providers of these utilities in the area. Likewise, depending on where you live, certain companies may be required to provide you with particular services. Please bear that in mind as you choose your utility companies.

Vehicle Registration and Driver's Licenses

For information on obtaining license plates and a DC driver's license, or to register your vehicle, please visit the Department of Motor Vehicles website. They provide information on local outposts where you can take advantage of these services as well as information on vehicle inspections, towed vehicles and obtaining parking permits. Upon moving to DC you only have 30 days to obtain a driver's license. Keep in mind that getting a license in DC might change your state of residency, which could have implications for residency decisions should you plan on attending a state college or university. Many places in DC also require you to register your car or get a parking permit for street parking. Because this varies based on where in DC you live, you can look into this in more detail when you decide upon a place of residence within the district.

Volunteering

DC maintains one of the largest volunteering networks of any major US metropolitan area. Visit the links below for access to some of the opportunities available to DC area residents:

DC Cares

DC Citizen Corps

Georgetown: DC-Based Volunteer Opportunities

Global Youth Service Day

Mentoring Programs

Moving to Maryland

The Maryland State Website provides a wealth of information on services provided to Maryland residents. It includes information on environmental issues, housing programs, veteran's affairs, camping and museums, resources for funding of higher education, and motor vehicle laws and restrictions, amongst other things. For these and other resources, or for information on other sources of information for you and your family as you move into the area, please visit their website.

Animals and Pets

The Dog Kennel provides an online resource for finding kennels in your area, as well as training, grooming and other pet services. For a list of veterinarians, check your local phone directory or visit VetWeb.net.

Farmers Markets

Farmers markets provide a venue for local farms and small businesses to sell their products in a centralized location. These markets can include anything from fresh fruit and produce to cider to baked goods to handmade soaps and furniture. The Maryland Department of Agriculture compiled a list of local farmers markets, complete with contact information, dates, times and locations. Generally farmers markets in this area operate from May through October, but check with individual markets to confirm availability.

Finding Housing

In addition to the general housing websites mentioned elsewhere in this document, local universities often provide their students with resources for finding off-campus housing that might be useful to you. Some universities with especially helpful websites are Johns Hopkins University and University of Maryland. For information and statistics on cities within Maryland, including information on typical employment, crime ratings and distance from other nearby cities, please visit City-Data.com. The state provides a brochure with information on the Homeowners Property Tax Credit. For previous sale information and current taxes on any particular home, visit the Maryland Department of Assessments and Taxation. Also, keep in mind that oral leases are legal in Maryland, but it is always wise to get your contract in writing.

Libraries

Visit the Maryland Public Libraries website for locations of libraries throughout the state of Maryland. For further information on specific libraries, visit their individual websites.

Newspapers

In addition to the newspapers servicing the DC area, such as the Washington Post and the Washingtonian, many of which also cover events in the greater metropolitan area, The Gazette includes information on many Maryland community newspapers.

Taxes

Maryland State Tax information is available from the Comptroller of Maryland. The Internet also provides information on assessment and taxation. Federal income tax information can be found at the Internal Revenue Service website.

Vehicle Registration and Driver's Licenses

The Motor Vehicle Association provides information on getting tags, title, registration, and driver's licenses for you, your family and your car. All vehicles must pass the state Vehicle Emissions Inspection Program. Their website also provides hours and locations of offices. You can also ask for information on car seat laws and obtaining licenses for new drivers. Keep in mind that you are expected to obtain a Maryland state license within 60 days of moving to the state. Also, obtaining a driver's license in a new state might have implications for residency, should you be planning to attend a state college or university.

Moving to Frederick

Frederick County maintains a tourism website with further information about shopping, dining, and attractions in the area. The city of Frederick also maintains a website with information on everything from taxes to parking tickets.

Animals and Pets

The Animal Control Division and Shelter provides shelter to and adoption services for homeless animals and works to prevent animal cruelty and abuse. The Frederick County Humane Society also provides services for abandoned pets and facilitates adoptions.

Banking

In addition to some of the national banks that service the Frederick area, there are also regional and local banks that are available for your financial needs. Here are some financial institutions that may help you transition to the Frederick area:

Bank of America

BB & T

Chevy Chase Bank

Farmers and Mechanics Federal Savings and Loan

M & T Bank

PNC Bank

SunTrust Bank

Wachovia

Wells Fargo

Woodsboro Bank

Child Care

The Maryland Committee for Children provides resources on finding licensed child care and out of school activities for children of all ages. Frederick.com also provides resources for finding local child care.

Dining

EatInFrederick.com, DineSite.com and Frederick.com all provide listings and rankings of local restaurants. The Guide to Frederick also provides information on dining and restaurants in the Frederick area, as well as local entertainment venues and events.

Employment

Some websites providing employment information specific to the Frederick County areas include Frederick County Workforce Services, the Frederick County government, and The Frederick News Post online. The last resource is the newspaper for the Frederick area.

Finding Housing

In addition to the general housing information provided at the beginning of this document, Frederick County has a Housing and Community Development team committed to providing housing for all residents, especially low income and special needs populations. Some websites, such as HomeGain.com and Frederick Home Finder, may be able to help you locate a home in the area.

Healthcare and Hospitals

Frederick Memorial Hospital is the local hospital in Frederick. The website provides information on services and the hospital as well as a service that allows you to search for doctors in your area. Advanced Urgent Care of Frederick also provides medical services.

K-12 Education

Frederick County Public Schools maintain information on how to enroll your child as well as information on schools, their policies and calendars, and transportation to and from schools. Private School Review, Frederick.com, the local school directory and Private Schools Report all provide information on private schooling in Frederick County.

Libraries

Information on the Frederick County Public Libraries, including their locations, hours, and catalog listing, can be found on their website.

Newspapers

The Frederick-News Post is the main newspaper for the Frederick County area. Their website provides information on regional activities and hosts classified ads for jobs, housing, and so forth. Gazette.Net and the Washington Post also report on this region.

Performing Arts

The Weinberg Center for the Arts provides performing arts services to the community. Their website features an online calendar and the option to buy tickets via the Internet. The Delaplaine Visual Arts Education Center provides classes for children and adults and also features exhibits throughout the year. Celebrate Frederick also provides information about local activities and events.

Post-Secondary Education

The following schools are located in or near Frederick and can provide both college and university level education:

Frederick Community College
Frostburg State University
Hood College
Mount St. Mary's University
The University of Maryland

Recreation

The Frederick Keys are a local class A baseball team and are the Class A affiliate of the Baltimore Orioles. The Recreation Department provides information on recreation centers and nature centers as well as opportunities to volunteer. The Parks Department provides similar information including information on ball fields and a map of county parks.

Statistics and Safety

For crime statistics in Frederick, please visit the Frederick County website. The Baltimore Sun also put out rankings of the safety of many Maryland cities; this information can be found on their website. CityRating.com also provides ratings of city safeness as determined by general crime reports.

Transportation

Public Parking is handled by the Department of Public Works. In addition to operating parking garages and meters, they also oversee the resident parking program, handle handicapped parking, and distribute "no parking" signs for weddings, funerals, and so forth.

In addition to airports in the DC metropolitan area, Frederick boasts its own municipal airport. Information on this airport, as well as requirements for maintaining your own plane at this airport, is available at their website.

For information on public transportation, including schedules, fares, and a system map, visit the Frederick County TransIT official website.

Utilities

For water and sewer information, please visit the Department of Public Works website. Further information can be found at the Utilities and Solid Waste Management website.

Refuse and recycling services are provided either by Frederick City or by Frederick County, depending on the service provided. For a list of services rendered, as well as which entity is responsible for these services, please visit the Department of Public Works website. Guidelines for residential solid waste services can be found on the city of Frederick website.

Information on recycling can be found via the Frederick County Government website. This website contains information on curbside and satellite recycling as well as information on recycling of unusual substances such as motor oil, grass, pesticide containers and Christmas trees.

Companies that provide electric service to Maryland include Pepco, Allegheny Power, and BGE, among others. Gas is provided by BGE, Chesapeake, Washington Gas, and other companies. Check the Maryland Public Service Commission website to determine what company offers service in your area.

Volunteering

Food banks and soup kitchens welcome volunteers. The Frederick Community Action Agency maintains a list of programs. You can also contact local places of worship and non-profit organizations for further information about volunteer opportunities. More volunteer opportunities can be found on the city of Frederick website.

Voting

For information on voter registration, finding your polling place, and absentee ballot information, as well as other election information, the Frederick County Board of Elections is available to assist you with your needs.

Moving to Montgomery County

For information on general services offered to residents of Montgomery County, including information on health programs, education, parks and recreation, public safety, career opportunities, taxes, and transportation, please visit the Montgomery County website.

Animals and Pets

The Montgomery County Division of Animal Control and Humane Treatment issues animal related licenses and permits, investigates animal cruelty and nuisance, and manages a rabies prevention program. The animal shelter provides rescue, care, adoption, and return of pets to their owners. The Montgomery County branch of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals also provides information on how to adopt or foster a pet, as well as volunteer information.

Forms to obtain a license for your pet can be found online at the Montgomery County Police Department website. If you are experiencing wildlife nuisance problems, such as birds in your attic or groundhogs under your porch, please contact Animal Control and Humane Treatment.

Banking

In addition to some of the national banks that service Montgomery County, there are also regional and local banks that are available for your financial needs. While this list is not inclusive, it names some financial institutions that may help you transition to the area:

Bank of America

BB & T

Chase

Chevy Chase Bank

Citibank

Columbia Bank

Mid-Atlantic Federal Credit Union

Montgomery Teachers Federal Credit Union

M & T Bank

National Institutes of Health Federal Credit Union

Navy Federal Credit Union

PNC Bank

SunTrust Bank

United Bank

Wachovia Bank

Washington Mutual Bank

Child Care

The Maryland County Child Care Resource and Referral Center is a service of the Department of Health and Human Services and works with the Maryland Child Care Resource Network to provide information on child care in the community. The Maryland Committee for Children likewise provides services for parents, including a search for licensed child care and for out-of-school activities. The NIH also provides child care for its employees through the Office of Research Services but there is a wait list; you may need to seek external sources for child care.

Dining

Rankings provided by The Washington Post and The Washingtonian provide their information about restaurants and dining within Montgomery County.

Finding Housing

In addition to the initial section providing general housing information, Montgomery County provides information regarding apartments in the area. This information is searchable by city name, apartment name, and geographic area.

Healthcare and Hospitals

The Washingtonian magazine provides rankings of doctors in the greater DC area. This website provides information on not only family practitioners, but also specialists in a number of fields.

There are also hospitals in DC and in Virginia, many of which have specialty areas, but this list includes many of the larger Montgomery County hospitals.

Adventist Healthcare
Holy Cross Hospital
Laurel Regional Hospital
Montgomery General Hospital
National Naval Medical Center
Shade Grove Adventist Hospital
Suburban Hospital
Washington Adventist Hospital

K-12 Schools

Montgomery County Public Schools provide services for over 135,000 students in approximately 200 schools throughout the county. To enroll your student, call the school in your area, which can be determined on the website. To enroll a child for the first time you must bring the child's birth certificate, immunization records, Social Security number and proof of county residency. If the child has been in school before, bring his or her most recent report card from the previous school.

If you are interested in non-public schools, the Maryland State Board of Education provides a list of schools that hold a Certificate of Approval.

Newspapers

Newspapers in the area include the Washington Post and the Washington Times. These newspapers provide not only a source of information about daily news, but also have sections on jobs, real estate, classified ads, items available for purchase, and so forth. The Washingtonian is a monthly magazine providing news stories as well as ratings by DC area residents on restaurants, doctors, and schools, as well as information on events, travel, homes and other topics of interest.

Performing Arts

Montgomery County, and especially Bethesda, houses a large number of independent and community theaters. Some of these are specifically for children or summer theater but many have performances throughout the year. The following list is not inclusive but names some of the major venues and companies:

Adventure Theatre at Glen Echo Park

American Film Institute

Arts in Rockville

BlackRock Center for the Arts

F. Scott Fitzgerald Theater

Gildenhorn/Speisman Center

Imagination Stage

Intact Story Theatre

Montgomery County Performing Arts Society

The Montgomery County Playhouse

National Philharmonic

Olney Theatre Center

The Puppet Company Playhouse

Quotidian Theatre Company

Robert E. Parilla Performing Arts Center

Round House Theatre

Shaker Forest Festival

Silver Spring Stage

Soul in Motion Players

Strathmore

Victorian Lyric Opera Company

Wildwood Summer Theatre

Post Secondary Schools

Montgomery College has locations in Germantown, Rockville and Takoma Park and provides post-secondary classes and degrees in a number of different fields. Johns Hopkins maintains a Montgomery County Center that offers more than 40 part-time graduate professional degrees and certificates. They offer evening and weekend classes and labs as well as a full-service library. The University of Maryland at Shady Grove also provides classes and educational services.

For more information on education throughout Maryland, visit the Maryland State Department of Education.

Recreation

The Montgomery County Department of Parks provides park maps, facilities and trails as well as the option to register online for classes and programs. The Recreation Department includes information on community recreation centers, aquatic centers and programs, classes, sports, summer camps and more. The Revenue Authority includes information on golf courses in the area. For information on use of public facilities, including ball fields, please visit the Montgomery County website.

Established in 2001, the Gilchrist Center for Cultural Diversity provides services for the international community in Montgomery County. This includes workshops on English as a Second Language, basic legal assistance, and small business development, as well as information on cultural programs and volunteering.

The following websites provide information on some local areas of entertainment, including parks, golf courses, and museums. This list is by no means inclusive but provides a starting point for your search:

Bethesda Urban Partnership
Glen Echo Park
Jewish Community Center
Montgomery County Culture
Montgomery County Golf Courses
National Capital Trolley Museum
The Ratner Museum

Statistics and Safety

For crime statistics within Montgomery County, please visit the Department of Police website. Here you will find information on crimes, types of crimes committed, and the areas where they were committed. This is broken down by city and by area.

For safety tips put out by Montgomery County, including information on car seats, carbon monoxide detectors, pool safety, and other household safety information, please visit the Montgomery County website.

Transportation

Public transportation in Montgomery County is largely serviced by Washington Metro Area Transit Authority, which provides bus and subway services throughout the DC Metro Area. Montgomery County also provides its own resources for commuting, carpooling and public transit, and also maintains the Ride On bus system, which is an extension of the WMATA resources. CommuterPage.com also provides information on DC area transportation resources.

For information on bike trails within Montgomery County, the County website has a series of maps with bicycling paths, and the Montgomery County Bicycle Map Project is also working on developing inclusive maps of bicycle routes throughout the county.

Utilities

Some types of utilities have multiple providers, whereas some do not. For a complete list of utility companies, access the Maryland Public Service Commission's utility listing. Keep in mind that the list provided here is not necessarily inclusive and is subject to change.

Electricity in the area is generally provided either by Allegheny Power or Potomac Electric Power Company (PEPCO). Depending on where you are located, other companies such as Baltimore Gas and Electric may provide your services. For information on electricity deregulation, visit the Montgomery County website. Gas is provided by Washington Gas, Baltimore Gas and Electric, Chesapeake, or a number of other companies listed here; you may also buy natural gas from natural gas suppliers. Water and sewer service is taken care of by the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission. For a list of telephone providers please see the Maryland Public Service Commissions' utility listing. The major providers of cable television and high speed Internet are Comcast, RCN, and Verizon.

Montgomery County provides recycling pickup once a week for single-family homes and townhomes. If you live in an apartment, contact your property manger for information on recycling.

Trash collection varies in different areas of Montgomery County. In some southern areas it is collected via independent companies. These collection fees are included in your property tax bill and collection occurs once a week on the same day as recycling pickup. In the rest of the county, residents contract with and pay independent trash collection companies. You can look under "Rubbish and Garbage Removal" in the phone book or online for names of companies. Remember to pay your hauler only for collection services. The disposal charge is included in your property tax bill. To find out which area you live in, visit the Montgomery County website.

For further information about trash collection and recycling in Montgomery County, please visit their website.

Volunteering

In addition to volunteer opportunities sponsored by local places of worship and non-profit organizations, Montgomery County sponsors volunteer opportunities within the Fire & Rescue Service, Health and Human Services Department, and Police Department, to name a few. Please visit the Montgomery County website for more information on volunteer options.

Voting

For information on registering to vote, election district maps, and election results, please visit the Montgomery County voting website.

Moving to Baltimore

There are both urban and suburban residential areas in the Baltimore area. Baltimore City is largely urban and is at the center of the Baltimore region. Baltimore County includes the surrounding area and is larger than Baltimore city proper. Nearby counties include Anne Arundel, Carroll, Harford and Howard. There are pros and cons to both living arrangements. Many of the city's resources, including attractions, private schools, universities, hospitals, dining and nightlife, are nearby if you live in the city. Such residents also tend to have shorter commutes and a larger selection of housing types as well as more public transportation options. However, homes in Baltimore City tend to be smaller, older, and may not have yards. Parking can be more difficult, crime and poverty rates are higher. Suburban homes tend to be newer and larger, the neighborhoods are generally safer, public schools tend to have better standardized test scores than urban schools, and the homes are generally more convenient to larger shopping centers. However, suburban areas tend to have longer commutes, with traffic and congestion issues, and there is less variety in stores and restaurants than in the city.

Whatever you choose, we have provided some basic information on resources in the area and where to find help in pursuing your housing options. The Live in Baltimore website provides information on renting and buying homes, neighborhoods within the Baltimore area, and housing incentive and loan programs. Further information on Baltimore county, including business and human services, transportation, and public safety, can be round at the Baltimore County website.

Local universities also often offer information to their students about finding housing in the area. Some of the universities with especially helpful websites that may be of use to you in your housing search include the Maryland Institute College of Art, Towson University and the University of Baltimore.

Multiple websites provide information on local events within the greater Baltimore area. These websites often provide calendars, maps, and ticket information for the many events occurring throughout the year. Here are some websites to help you locate such events:

Baltimore Area Convention and Visitors Association
Baltimore City Paper Online
Baltimore Office and Promotion of the Arts
Baltimore Sun Online

Animals and Pets

Baltimore County provides information on laws and regulations governing pet ownership and licenses, as well as adoptions and volunteering. Adoption and volunteer information is also provided by the Maryland Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals and the Baltimore Animal Rescue and Care Shelter.

Banking

In addition to some of the national banks that service the Baltimore area, there are also regional and local banks that are available for your financial needs. Here is a list of some financial institutions that may help you make your transition to the Baltimore area:

1st Mariner Bank

M&T Bank

Baltimore County Savings Bank

Bank of America

Chesapeake Bank

Columbia Bank

First Union

Harbor Bank of Maryland

The Johns Hopkins Federal Credit Union

Mercantile Bankshares Corporation

Provident Bank

SunTrust Bank

Child Care

The Baltimore County Public Library system offers information on child care and development, especially as it pertains to literacy. They also maintain information on local libraries and their programs for children as well as choosing good quality child care.

Dining

The following are websites that provide listings and ratings of restaurants in the Baltimore area:

AOL City Guide

Baltimore Area Convention and Visitors Association

Baltimore Sun

Dine Baltimore

Dining Guide

Gayot.com

Employment

Some resources for employment specific to the Baltimore area include the City of Baltimore, classified listings in the Baltimore Sun, the Mayor's Office of Employment Development and The Employment Guide.

Finding Housing

General housing information is provided in the first section of this guide. The Baltimore Sun Classified Ads allow you to search by county, price, or housing type. This is the largest newspaper in Maryland and can provide you access to a variety of resources. Websites such as Baltimore Apartments and Baltimore Sublet can also provide information on apartments and temporary housing.

If you are looking to buy a home in the area, the Baltimore Sun classified ads will again prove useful. Some areas of Baltimore County also offer discounts to first-time home buyers. Please visit the website to see if you qualify.

Hospitals

Along with providing medical services, these hospitals may be able to provide you with names of physicians and specialists in your area:

Franklin Square Hospital
Greater Baltimore Medical Center
Harbor Hospital
The Johns Hopkins Hospital
Mercy Medical Center
St. Agnes Hospital

St. Joseph Medical Center

Sinai Hospital

Union Memorial Hospital

University of Maryland Medical Center

K-12 Schools

If you are planning on enrolling and registering your child in a Baltimore School, the Baltimore City Public Schools maintain a website where you can find information on which school district you reside in. If you want to pursue education options outside of your zoned area, you will need a Student Transfer Application. These options include charter schools, many of which have a different curriculum than the city schools. Each of these schools also has a different admission process. Children in K-8 are expected to attend their zone school though you can transfer to out-of-zone schools. For grades 9-12, there are Baltimore City High Schools without entrance criteria in addition to zoned schools and schools with entrance criteria. Any student can apply to the schools without criteria or remain in their zoned school. The Maryland State Department of Education also provides information on testing results from public schools.

To register your child you will need to contact the school and make an appointment. The school will tell you which documents you need to bring but it will likely include a proof of address, birth certificate, immunization record, and recent report card. The local departments of education can also provide further information on schools in the area and registering and enrolling your child.

For those living outside Baltimore City but still in Baltimore County, visit the county website for information on registering your student, schools in your area, and regulations and restrictions concerning zoning and charter schools. If you wish to enroll your child in non-public (including private) schooling in Baltimore County, the Maryland State Board of Education maintains a list of the approved schools. You can visit their website for a list of non-public schools and from there navigate specifically to private or publicly funded special schools.

There are also many private schools in the Baltimore area. This list is by no means inclusive and we encourage you to pursue other institutions as you desire.

Markets

Baltimore has a long history of markets providing everything from fresh and prepared foods to tourist attractions and cultural events. Visit the individual web pages for information on what specific products and services each market provides, as well as their times and locations. The markets include Avenue Market, Broadway Market, Cross Street Market, Hollins Market, Lexington Market, and Northeast Market.

Newspapers

Area newspapers include the Baltimore Sun, Baltimore Business Journal, Baltimore Times, and the Baltimore City Paper.

Performing Arts

The Baltimore area houses multiple theaters in addition to the performing arts resources provided by the DC metro area. There are also a number of theaters at local universities, but these are some of the other companies that perform in the area:

The Audrey Herman Spotlighters Theatre

Baltimore Actors' Theatre

Baltimore School for the Arts

The France-Merrick Performing Arts Center - The Hippodrome Theatre

Richard Barry - Classical Guitarist

Round House Theatre

Post-Secondary Education

The following schools are located in or near Baltimore and provide either or both college- and university-level education. This list is by no means inclusive but provides a starting point for locating advanced educational resources within the area.

Baltimore Hebrew University
Baltimore International College
College of Notre Dame of Maryland
Coppin State University

The Johns Hopkins University
Loyola College in Maryland
Maryland Institute College of Art
Morgan State University
Towson University
University of Baltimore
University of Maryland, Baltimore
University of Maryland School of Medicine

Recreation

The city of Baltimore provides resources for entertainment throughout the city proper, including information on the Department of Recreation and Parks. The portal to Maryland also provides information on restaurants and travel within the Baltimore area, as does the Baltimore County website. Other sources of entertainment in the area include the Maryland Film Festival and Fort McHenry National Park.

Statistics and Safety

For crime statistics in Baltimore, please visit the Baltimore Department of Police. CityRating.com and FedStats also provide information on crimes committed and areas they were committed in within the greater Baltimore area.

Transportation

The Maryland Transit Administration oversees the main means of public transportation in the state of Maryland. They provide services including: Metro subway, which services the greater DC area via a series of subways, buses, and shuttles; Light Rail; MARC train, which has routes from Baltimore to Washington DC, as well as servicing two other lines; and other services. Visit the Maryland Transit Administration for more information.

If you are interested in bicycling in the Baltimore Area, the Baltimore Bicycling Club provides information routes, maps, and local biking events.

Utilities

Some types of utilities have multiple providers, whereas some do not. For a complete list of utility companies, and for a listing of companies providing telephone service, please see the Maryland Public Service Commission's utility listing.

Electricity and gas are provided by multiple companies, including Allegheny Power, Potomac Electric Power Company (PEPCO), and Baltimore Gas and Electric. For information on electricity deregulation, visit the Montgomery County website. Water and sewer service is provided by the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission.

Volunteering

Individual groups, including non-profits, hospitals, and places of worship, often maintain their own listings of volunteer opportunities. Some websites that also provide such information include:

Baltimore County
BVU's Volunteer Center
Live Baltimore
The Maryland Zoo in Baltimore
Volunteer Firemen's Association
Volunteer Match

Voting

For information on voting in the city of Baltimore, please visit the city website. For voting in Baltimore County, the county provides information on finding your polling place, registering to vote, and casting your ballot.

Moving to Virginia

Generally people who commute into DC from Virginia live in either Fairfax County or Arlington County. Both are close to the Beltway and public transportation and still have their own independent economies. Most information presented in this section relates to living in either of these counties.

Animals and Pets

There are a number of resources to adopt a pet in the Northern Virginia area. These include Friends of Homeless Animals, which also services the greater DC area, the Humane Society of Fairfax County, and the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals of Northern Virginia.

To get a license for your pet, you must vaccinate it against rabies. Keep in mind that the Arlington County Code prohibits more than three dogs per household unless approved by the zoning administration and you obtain a kennel license. For more information on these and other regulations, including instructions for obtaining a license, please visit the Arlington County website.

Banking

There are a number of both national and local banks serving Virginia. Some of these are listed below. However, this list is not inclusive and we encourage you to choose a bank that meets your financial needs. You can use the Yellow Pages or other online resources to find a complete listing of Virginia banks.

American National Bank and Trust Company

Bank of America

BB&T Bank

Farmers and Merchants Bank

The Fauguier Bank

First National Bank

Greater Atlantic Bank

PNC Bank

Shore Bank

Summit Community Bank

SunTrust Bank

United Bank

Wachovia

Washington Mutual Bank

Wells Fargo Bank

The World Bank

Child Care

The Virginia Department of Social Services provides information on, and a search engine for, licensed child care throughout the state. Other sites with similar information include DayCareVirginia.com, Child Care Central for Fairfax County, Private School Review, and the Fairfax County Website for Schools and Training.

Dining

There are many websites devoted to finding the best restaurants in different cities. Listed below are some websites with recommendations and reviews of restaurants in Virginia.

Arlington Virginia.com

Chef Moz

DC-Restaurants.com

DineSite.com

DiningVirginia.com

Top Restaurants

Virginia is for Lovers

The Washington Post

The Washingtonian

WineCountry.com

Employment

For information on finding employment information specific to Virginia, your local newspaper and CareerConnect, Virginia Employment Commission, and Virginia Jobs may prove good resources.

Farmers Markets

Farmers markets provide a venue for local farms and small businesses to sell their products in a centralized location. These markets can include anything from fresh fruit and produce to cider to baked goods to handmade soaps and furniture. For information on farmers markets in Fairfax County, please visit the county website. This site includes hours, locations, and contact information. Arlington County also offers a farmers' market with information on seasonal items, recipes, and producers, in addition to hours and directions of the market.

Finding Housing

In addition to the general information provided in the first section of this guide, there are multiple websites developed by realty associations, etc. that you may find relevant for finding housing in northern Virginia. These include the Housing and Community Services of Northern Virginia,

Northern Virginia Real Estate, American Home Guides, Washington Metro Builders' Realty Council, and the Northern Virginia Association of Realtors.

Healthcare and Hospitals

The Washingtonian magazine provides rankings of doctors in the greater DC area. This website provides information on not only family practitioners, but also specialists in a number of fields.

There are a number of hospitals serving the DC metro area; major hospitals in Virginia include Fairfax Surgical Center, Inova Health System, and the Virginia Hospital Center. Please contact your health care provider to find out if these hospitals are supported by your health insurance.

K-12 Education

The Virginia Department of Education provides information on public schooling throughout the state of Virginia, including finding a school within your division. Some of the private schools in the Virginia portion of the greater DC metro area are also listed online.

Libraries

Hours, locations, and directions to libraries in Fairfax county and Arlington county can be found on their respective websites.

Newspapers

Some of the newspapers specific to the Virginia area include Sun Newspapers of Alexandria and the Alexandria Times. A list of Virginia newspapers provided is by US Newspaper List.

Performing Arts

The DC area is home to a wide variety of independent and community theaters. Many are also located in Virginia, including some historic venues. The following list is not inclusive but names some of the major venues and companies:

American Music Stage

Center for the Arts

Elden Street Players

Fairfax Symphony Orchestra

McLean Community Center

Patriot Center at George Mason University

Reston Community Players

Richard J. Ernst Community Cultural Center

Theater of the First Amendment

Wolf Trap

Post-secondary Education

Virginia is home to many educational institutions, some of which are the oldest in the country. A list of some of the ones that are closest to the DC metro area is provided below, but there are many more places to continue your education throughout the state.

The College of William & Mary

George Mason University

Hampton University

Marymount University

Norfolk State University

The University of Northern Virginia

University of Virginia

Virginia State University

Recreation

The following is a list of some of the major parks and entertainment venues within northern Virginia. This list is by no means inclusive but provides a good starting point for your search, especially regarding local parks. DC and Maryland also have a number of recreational areas, as does West Virginia.

FCPA Golf Courses

George Washington Memorial Parkway

Great Falls Park

Greater Reston Arts Center

Green Spring Gardens

Huntley Meadows Park

Lakefront Parks

Mason Neck State Park

McLean Project for the Arts

Northern Virginia Regional Park Authority

Penderbrook Golf Club

Pleasant Valley Golf Club

Vienna Arts Society Gallery

Westfields Golf Club

Statistics and Safety

For statistics on larger Virginia cities, including jobs, home sales, crime rates, and so forth, city-data.com provides a recently compiled list of this information. Individual cities and counties often provide such information on websites for their law enforcement personnel.

Taxes

Information in Virginia state taxes can be found on their Department of Taxation website. Federal income tax information can be found at the Internal Revenue Service website.

Transportation

The Virginia Department of Transportation offers a number of resources for Northern Virginia Commuters on its Travel Center website. Such resources include the Virginia Railway Express, CommuterPage.com, and Commuter Connections. The website also discusses Rideshare solutions and traffic patterns.

Washington Metro Area Transit Authority also reaches into areas of northern Virginia, providing bus and metro service for commuters and residents. More information, including routes and schedules, can be found on their website.

For those who wish to bike in the Virginia area, Arlington County provides several bicycling maps. Fairfax County likewise provides bicycling information and maps.

Utilities

Utility information for Arlington County:

Cable companies include Comcast of Arlington, Cox Communciations and Verizon. Electricity is provided by Dominion Virginia Power, Northern Virginia Electric Cooperative, and Appalachian Power, among others. Washington Gas, Columbia Gas of Virginia, and Virginia Natural Gas, among other companies, supply natural gas to your home. Phone service is provided by multiple companies, including Verizon, AT&T and Cox Communications. For trash, recycling, sewer and water services, contact the Arlington County Utilities Services Office.

Utility information in Fairfax County:

Electric companies include Dominion Virginia Power, Appalachian Power and Northern Virginia Electric Cooperative. These companies also maintain streetlights in the county. Gas services are generally provided by Washington Gas but check the Public Works & Utilities website for more information. Telephone, cable, and internet service is provided by Comcast of Virginia, Cox Communications, and Verizon Virginia, among other companies. Most water services in Fairfax county are provided by Fairfax Water; however, some places may fall under other jurisdictions, which are listed on the Fairfax County website. Trash and recycling information can likewise be found on the county's website. For more information visit the Public Works & Utilities website.

Vehicle Registration and Driver's Licenses

Information on registering your car in Virginia, as well as obtaining your driver's license, can be found at the Virginia Department of Motor Vehicles web site. You have 60 days from moving to the state to register your car and get a driver's license. Also, obtaining a driver's license in a new state might have implications for residency, should you be planning to attend a state college or university. If you live in Arlington County, you will also have to register your car with the county. Basic information, including a list of FAQ, is provided here.

Volunteering

Arlington County provides a website with information on community and citizen participation. In addition to this website, many places of worship and local charities also sponsor events and are always searching for willing volunteers.

Voting

For information on voting in Virginia, check out the Virginia State Board of Elections website. This provides information on registering to vote, information the candidates and elections, and how to go about absentee voting.