Art that Fueled the Fight for Women's Suffrage
August 20, 2020 at 12pm (ET)

Pam Breaux
National Assembly of State Arts
Agencies President and CEO

Mary Anne Carter
National Endowment for the Arts Chairman

The fight for the vote went beyond lobbying politicians with letter writing campaigns. Suffragists of the early 20th century transformed the controversial and polarizing idea of women's suffrage to appeal to the masses. How did they do it?

Tomorrow, August 20 at 12 pm (ET), join Mary Anne Carter, Chairman of the National Endowment for the Arts, and Pam Breaux, President and CEO of the National Assembly of State Arts Agencies, as they discuss how the arts helped shape the women's suffrage movement and changed America for the better.
